NEW SOVIET A-BLAST END OF SUSPENSION?

TOKYO (Wednesday) (AP) — The Tokyo meteorological station has detected what it believes as a Soviet nuclear explosion. This would be the first since March 21, when Russia announced it was suspending tests.

A meteorological station spokesman said abnormal atmospheric pressures were felt throughout Japan about 10 p.m. Tuesday. These indicated an explosion in the megaton 1,000,000 tons of TNT class, he said.

The waves came from north-northwest of Japan but the exact location of origin could not be fixed.

Ike, Dulles Open Door On Formosa

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held the door open today for a peaceful settlement of the Formosa crisis that might include withdrawal of large Nationalist Chinese forces from the offshore islands.

Both ruled out "appeasement" and any retreat under fire. But they emphasized a willingness to consider any suggestions for easing tensions in the powderkeg area.

Eisenhower made it clear in accepting the credentials of Chinese Nationalist ambassador George Yeh that the United States was not going to take a hard-headed attitude which would exclude a peaceful settlement with Red China.

He also called on Nationalist China to help avert war by considering suggestions for a peaceful settlement.

WITHDRAWAL POSSIBLE

Meanwhile, Dulles indicated that the U.S. would urge the withdrawal of large Nationalist forces from Quemoy and Matsu if a dependable cease-fire arrangement could be worked out with the Communists.

Dulles told a news conference in reply to a question that there might be an important change in U.S. policy if the Communists were willing to "give" on some of the issues.

He said U.S. policy was "flexible and adaptable" to the situation the nation was required to meet.

POLICY CRITICIZED

Dulles said the U.S. did not feel that it was sound policy in the first place for Chiang Kai-shek to make a major commitment of forces to the off-shore island. However, he said, the Nationalists had strong views on the subject and the U.S. acquiesced. Chiang is reported to have 100,000 men on the off-shore islands, of which 85,000 are said to be on Quemoy.

Dulles also said he would be willing to meet with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai if there were reason to think it would help settle the Formosa crisis. But he doubted the wisdom of such a meeting at this time.

He said he saw improvement in the Formosa situation over the past two weeks and believed there was less likelihood of war.

Nationalists Wait Chance In Red 'Revolt'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nationalist China said today it would defend "every inch" of its territory but would await a revolt against the Chinese Communists before invading the mainland.

"We are realists," Chinese Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsai told the United Nations General Assembly.

"We love peace as much as anybody else. We have our fund of common sense."

"It is not our thought that the 10 million people on Taiwan (Formosa) should be pitted against the 500 or 600 million on the mainland. We have no reason to fight against our brethren on the mainland."

"However, when our people on the mainland rise in revolt as the Hungarian people did two years ago and call for our help, we shall fight side by side with them for their freedom."

"This is our program of recovery of the mainland, no more and no less."

Schools Stay Closed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — An attempt to reopen the closed Little Rock high schools on a private segregated basis was abandoned today. Governor Orval Faubus said "other avenues will be explored."

FISH STORIES OF 1958

Pearson's $5 Fish Beats John D's at Ten Grand

A 25-pound spring salmon was presented to Lester Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, Monday night by Bob Clifton, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia.

Said Mr. Clifton: "I see that a 2½-pound fish caught by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the Yukon cost $10,000. This fish cost $5. B.C. fish are bigger and better."

His reference was to a fishing expedition for the Prime Minister near Dawson City, Yukon Territory, recently, and it is estimated the trip cost $10,000. Included in a fishing party of about 50 people were police, army units, engineers, CNC and National Film Board cameramen and reporters.

Said Mr. Pearson: "The last time I was in Victoria I did not bring home the bacon—but tonight I am bringing home the fish."

Spectacular Fire Destroys Well-Known Malahat Resort

$70,000 Loss Partly Insured

By MONTE ROBERTS

A roaring, $70,000 fire totally destroyed the Malahat Chalet in just over an hour this morning.

The cedar building, one of the best-known Vancouver Island landmarks, was burned to the ground, with only a stone chimney left standing.

Langford forest rangers and volunteer firemen, and Colwood RCMP arrived on the scene to find the building practically gone.

The Chalet, which opened at 12 noon each day, was empty when the fire started.

Co-owners Marshall Smith and "Buzz" Burns were in the near-by Hitching Post coffee bar just before 10 a.m. when the waitress noticed smoke at the back of the chalet.

"At first we thought someone was burning rubbish," Mr. Smith said. "Then we realized the smoke was coming out of the back of the building itself."

PHONE OUT

Another witness said the telephone was out of order. A passing motorist was sent on to Langford to notify the fire department.

Meanwhile, the Langford forest rangers saw the smoke and sent a new, 2,000-gallon tank truck to the scene.

Said Mr. Smith: "It arrived between 10:30 and 11. By that time, there was nothing left of the inside of the buildings. The walls collapsed shortly after."

At 11:30 a.m., only a few smouldering floor beams remained to show where the chalet stood.

TOTEMS INTACT

The famed totem poles outside the chalet did not burn. But the wooden statue of Chief Malahat which guarded the doorway was totally destroyed.

The well-known stone wishing well also remains.

Mr. Smith placed the value of the building at $40,000, covered by insurance. Not covered were $15,000 worth of stock, mainly souvenirs, and $12,000 worth of fixtures and furniture.

IN KITCHEN

Mr. Smith said he had no idea of how the fire started, or exactly where, but it appeared to be in the back of the building, possibly in the kitchen area.

Mr. Smith and his partner bought the Chalet in April, 1957, from Mr. and Mrs. Vance Angus and their son, Doug, who operated it for almost 10 years. The new owners spent about $20,000 on enlarging and renovating facilities.

The Chalet, with its unmatched view of Finlayson Arm, was a favorite stopping place for tourists from all over the world, and also a dining favorite with residents from Victoria and up-island.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Burns today said they would start rebuilding immediately.

ALL GONE IN ONE HOUR

Taken only minutes after Malahat Chalet fire was first spotted shortly before 10 a.m. today, photo shows how quickly flames raced through building. Less than hour later, destruction was complete.

Douk Move Washout Looms As Paper Deadline Passes

A last-minute washout of plans for the mass exodus of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors from B.C. to Russia appeared possible today.

After a meeting with a Doukhobor committee, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he has now withdrawn his recommendation for extension of today's deadline for filing of migration forms by members of the sect — and few have responded.

Justice Minister David Fulton told a Sons of Freedom delegation in Ottawa today the federal government might grant a three-week extension — if Attorney-General Robert Bonner agreed.

The B.C. government had earlier recommended a 30-day extension for any person having a legitimate reason for delay. But Mr. Bonner indicated Monday a majority of Doukhobors are withholding their decision.

His statement suggested the B.C. government is losing patience. Mr. Mooljelsky said there was not enough time to get all 3,000 members of the Sons of Freedom signed up.

He said the forms, which include agreement to renounce Canadian citizenship, are lengthy and each signing must be formally witnessed.

About 50 per cent of the Doukhobors had signed and another 30 days should be time enough for the rest.

However it was reported that the government agent at Nelson had received only 40 forms.

The B.C. government and Ottawa justice department have agreed to assist in payment of passage and settlement costs for those Doukhobors wishing to leave Canada, provided they give up Canadian citizenship rights. Cost to the two governments is expected to exceed $2,000,000 if, as earlier indicated, 3,000 sect members depart.

Here is text of the attorney-general's statement:

"The government was disappointed to learn that contrary to statements made on the 3rd Sep. Continued on Page 2

NEW SIGNS TO WARN LITTERBUGS

Public works committee today recommended erection of signs at downtown trash cans warning litterbugs that messing up city streets can result in a fine of up to $100.

The recommendation was sent to council, along with a request to the city police commission that the anti-litter provision in the streets and traffic bylaw be enforced, following a recent campaign by civic leaders and The Victoria Times for cleaner streets.

City Engineer James C. Garnett told the committee that the 136 trash cans located on city streets were adequate to solve the problem if only people would use them.

$10,000 Course Steered by Navy

The navy expects to have $10,000 for the Community Chest when the last dollar is extracted from bell-bottomed pants pockets later today.

This would be a record and just about half as much again as the tars and civilians working with them chipped in last year.

STRAIGHT COURSE

Commander M. E. Doyle, the Chest's agent at Naden, said today the navy campaign which began Sept. 12 and ends tonight "steered just about as straight a course as we could have hoped for."

There has been such a good spirit among the 7,300 navy men and civilians that if we don't have the full $10,000 we aimed for—and I'll be surprised if it falls short—we'll come awfully close to it.

The total will consist both of cash and money pledged through banks.

Meanwhile, $51,000 has piled up in the form of advance gifts. Pledges for another $6,500 from employees of T. Eaton Co. will be handed Chest officials at a ceremony on the store's main floor Wednesday.

In 1918, the uncompleted railway went bankrupt and was taken over by the B.C. government. It was opened to traffic between Squamish and Quesnel in 1921. In 1952 it was extended to Prince George and in 1956 the southern extension reached North Vancouver.

The project has been the biggest railway construction job in North America for many years. All engines are diesel powered. It is the first railroad in Canada to use microwave transmission for its communication system. All of which leads the railway to consider itself one of the most modern in the world.

The northern extension opens some of B.C.'s richest resources to development—the wealth of the Rocky Mountain Trench, which is now being surveyed by Swedish industrialist, Axel Wenner-Gren. And it links to coastal and trans-ocean shipping routes the established wheat wealth of the Peace River Block.

General manager J. S. Broadbent says the completion of the northern extension will launch the PGE into its most active period.

Atom Weapons Asked by Army

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army wants atomic weapons and guided missiles.

Maj.-Gen. Jean Allard, vice-chief of the army general staff, said Monday night this request has gone to the Canadian government.

Tactical atomic weapons and guided missiles would have to be obtained from the United States. The Canadian Press quoted Gen. Allard Monday night as saying they already had been requested from the U.S. but the general phoned The CP afterwards to change this.

WRONG IMPRESSION

He said what he had said or meant to say was that the army has informed the Canadian government it needs and wants such weapons.

Procurement of atomic warheads or guided missiles was a matter of government policy and not one for the army, he said.

The army plans to get the U.S. Lacrosse surface guided missile and the U.S. Hawk supersonic air-to-air missile or a weapon similar to it.

The Lacrosse, on which Canatember, it (Fraternal Council, Sons of Freedom), did not have reliable evidence that a substantial number of migration forms had been completed. The committee, however, did leave with the government a list reported to contain the names of approximately 1,600 persons who had signed forms but who had not filed them with the offices of the government agents in the interior or the Federal Department of Citizenship and Immigration, Vancouver.

"In the light of this fact, the attorney-general is not prepared to recommend to the Minister of Justice that any extension of time take place, and on learning that a member of the Fraternal Council was in Ottawa, suggested that that member have a personal conversation with the Minister of Justice if an extension of time was desired.

Gen. Allard said the army has presented a three-year budget to the government involving a "small increase" over current expenditures. The army anticipates the government will meet its request, he said.

Last week, Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, in a speech at Boston, Mass., urged that the U.S. Congress give Canada atomic weapons for joint defence.

In 1918, the uncompleted railway went bankrupt and was taken over by the B.C. government. It was opened to traffic between Squamish and Quesnel in 1921. In 1952 it was extended to Prince George and in 1956 the southern extension reached North Vancouver.

The project has been the biggest railway construction job in North America for many years. All engines are diesel powered. Double Win for Tories Puts 'Family' in House

By The Canadian Press
The Progressive Conservative government has achieved fresh political triumphs and the first Commons father-and-daughter team in Quebec and Ontario by-elections.

Mrs. Jean Casselman, 38, an attractive widow, won handily the traditional Conservative stronghold of Grenville-Dundas in one of Monday's two federal by-elections.

Louis Fortin, 37, a Quebec City lawyer, captured Montmagny-Ilelet on his second try, snatching a seat that had been Liberal since its formation 25 years ago.

Mrs. Casselman, a tall brunette with two children, succeeds her late husband, A. Clair Casselman, as MP for Grenville-Dundas and forms half the historic combination completed by her father, Hon. Earl Rowe of Dufferin-Simcoe. She becomes the third woman member of the present House.

NOT SURPRISING

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he is "naturally gratified and pleased" with the Conservative victories.

Liberal Leader Lester Pearson described the results as "very disappointing but not surprising."

Mr. Fortin added to the Quebec trend away from Liberal allegiance by contributing the 51st Conservative seat among Quebec's 75.

He defeated a fellow Quebec lawyer, political novice Bernard Blanchet who was striving to succeed Jean Lesage, former Liberal resources minister whose accession to his party's Quebec provincial leadership made the by-election necessary.

The Commons standing now is: Conservative 208, Liberal 48, CCF 8, vacant 1, total 265. The Manitoba constituency of Springfield was left vacant by the death last week of the Progressive Conservative member, Val Yacula.

Mrs. Casselman managed a two-to-one victory over Mayor Mark P. Salmon of Prescott, Ont., her own home town.

Mr. Salmon just saved his $200 deposit. Mrs. Casselman polled just about the same number as her husband did in the general election of last March 31.

The final figures were 10,738 to 5,617—about a 74-per-cent voter turnout against 71 per cent in March. In Quebec, with two polls still outstanding, Mr. Fortin led by 7,531 votes to 6,534—about 70 per cent of the eligible vote as against 83 per cent in March.

A. Clair Casselman had first been elected in 1921 and had held Grenville-Dundas since its formation in 1924, scoring a record 11 consecutive general election wins.

Mrs. Casselman isn't the first Mrs. Casselman to enter the Commons nor the first Mrs. Casselman to succeed her husband after his death. Mrs. Cora Casselman—no relation—turned that trick in Edmonton East in 1941 for the Liberals.

Mr. Fortin, a Second World War artillery veteran and father of three children, made his political debut against Mr. Lesage in the 1958 general election as an independent. He is a son of the late Senator Emile Fortin and is a municipal judge in the Quebec City suburb of Ste. Foy.

French Cabinet Drafting Birth Of New Republic

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle convened his cabinet today to plan the birth of the Fifth Republic and a new world-wide French community.

De Gaulle prepared to proclaim the Fifth Republic on Sunday. He will have virtually absolute powers for the next four months while launching the republic.

An immediate task is to end the Algerian rebellion. De Gaulle plans to fly to Algeria Thursday. He may finally pull back the veil that so far has shrouded his intentions for the troubled North African territory.

Some reliable sources predict de Gaulle will seek some middle ground between the full independence demanded by nationalist rebels and the full integration of Algeria with France demanded by European settlers there.

Canada's 12-Mile Limit Bid Studied

SEATTLE (AP) — Canada's declared intention to press for 12-mile control of its coastal fisheries was known to be a prime topic for discussion at a closed-door session here today on International Fisheries questions.

William G. Herrington, special assistant to the U.S. under-secretary of state, called the session when Iceland announced its intention to extend its territorial limits to 12 miles at sea.

Canada, backed by Mexico, opposed the efforts of the United States and Britain to maintain the long-standing three-mile limit during a conference at Geneva last spring.

An industry spokesman said Canadian adoption of the 12-mile limit would not necessarily affect the neighborly fishing for sockeye salmon in British Columbia-Washington waters — "but it might, and that could be disastrous."

CONDEMNED U.K. MURDERER WINS PERMISSION TO MARRY

Time for Straight Talk

THE SERIOUS PROBLEM presented by the United States' policy on Quemoy is highlighted when no less a champion of Western unity than Mr. Lester Pearson advocates a "you're on your own" attitude towards our neighbor.

The man who won a Nobel Peace Prize can see no virtue in the present Washington determination to bring the world to the brink of war over the small islands lying less than ten miles from the Chinese mainland.

His reasoning is that these islands can only serve as outposts for an attack against Red China proper. Since we have no intention of carrying out such an attack, there is small point in risking a world war to retain possession of them.

Possession of Formosa, 100 miles from the mainland, is another matter. But it is the immediate problem of Quemoy which today has the world on the edge of the abyss.

"If the U.S. is going to pursue this policy," says Mr. Pearson, "then their friends should let them know candidly where they stand."

This is a sentiment which has been voiced by Britain in less outspoken terms, but which has yet to persuade U.S. State Secretary Dulles to reconsider his determination to out-bluff Peiping.

In this, as in other public issues,

Mr. Pearson shows the clear-sighted and statesmanlike attitude which Canadians have come to expect from him. Although he has been out of office for a year now, his name is still spoken of with respect at the United Nations and in embassies round the world. The qualities which earned this respect were very evident as he addressed private audiences in this city yesterday during a coast-to-coast tour on behalf of the Liberal Party.

But it is not only in the international field that the Liberal leader shows his abilities. One of the outstanding facts of the recent session of Parliament was the emergence of Mr. Pearson as an authority on domestic matters — on unemployment, on finance, on railways, on trade, on agricultural policy and the many other facets of our national life.

Now he is engaged in a visit to every part of Canada to confer with Party officials and rebuild from the ground the organization of which he is the head. That is a task made necessary by two defeats at the polls, but one in which Mr. Pearson has shown the stature necessary for success. As leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition he is a big factor in the life of this country, and destined to become a greater one.

Firmly in the Saddle

IF GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE was the "man on horseback" who emerged from retirement after the French rightists' coup last May, today he is firmly in the saddle as the result of Sunday's constitutional referendum.

With the exception of Guinea on the West African coast, the homeland and overseas French territories have given the wartime Resistance leader an overwhelming endorsement. The people in these lands have told him to assume temporarily almost dictatorial authority until the new republic is established. When organization has been completed, De Gaulle will have infinitely more power invested in the executive than has been the case in recent times. That is the objective at which he has aimed during the unstable postwar years when French people vacillated between a desire for stability and a simultaneous and ineffective championship of liberties which encouraged splintered parties and political chaos.

The Algerian vote, overwhelmingly for De Gaulle's proposals, is a personal triumph for the General. It may be true that the ballots cast in his favor were cast under the persuasion of the French army and that women, given the right to vote for the first time, responded with an expression of thanks to the personality to whom they attribute their new right.

The fact remains, however, that Algerians marked their ballots for De Gaulle's constitutional proposals with as heavy emphasis as did French people voting in France. If only one quarter of those eligible to vote in Algeria were registered, that is still a substantial number and reflects a significant percentage repudiating the call for a boycott made by the Algerian rebels.

This in no way suggests an immediate solution to the Algerian problem. The rebels say they will fight on. The conflict will not be resolved overnight.

At the same time, Algeria, where army forces set up the call to which De Gaulle responded four months ago, still apparently wants the man who has tempered the rightists' demands and has shown that he will not be pushed by the army element. If the referendum result there means anything beyond personal loyalty to the General, it seems to mean a more moderate course toward reconciliation. That reconciliation, if there is to be one, is nevertheless a long way off.

Guinea, by its decision, is apparently cut loose from the French community. It now is in the position to chart its own course, seek its own objectives and make its own mistakes.

In European France the referendum vote is seen as an impressive rebuff to Communists who, numerically strong, have added to the weakening chaos of French politics.

Perhaps with strength at the top, achieved at the expense of the assembly, the French genius so evident in physical recovery since the Second World War will assert itself in the political field, and a unified nation will emerge from the confusion of conflicting and independent political entities.

A beginning has been made by General de Gaulle. Hard work lies ahead.

A Chance to Meet Emily

ONE OF THE PROMISED DIVIDENDS of Victoria's new centennial art gallery wing will be collected today with the opening of a large display of Emily Carr paintings at the Moss Street centre.

This is the first time such an exhibit of the famed local artist's works has been possible in her home town, since heretofore there has not been a fireproof gallery available. The province holds a trust collection of 150 of Miss Carr's works, and so far the Vancouver Art Gallery has been the beneficiary. Now Victoria is able to "bring Emily home" and share these treasures with the mainland.

This is only one of the benefits accruing to Victoria from the new gallery, but it is one which should have a particular appeal to the people of this community. During her lifetime Emily Carr was largely ignored locally. Since her death her work has been admired here by reputation rather than acquaintance. Now at last there is an opportunity to see her paintings at first hand and catch a glimpse of the genius that has made her name internationally known.

The Vote in Little Rock

THE RESULTS OF THE LITTLE Rock voting bring the essential problem more clearly into focus. This is a struggle of state power versus federal power.

The United States Supreme Court ruled that integration must take place in Little Rock high schools — that Negro students, even though in merely token numbers, must be admitted to classes with white children.

The Government of Arkansas, headed by Governor Faubus, at first refused. Now after legal battles of one kind and another, it has side-stepped the immediate issue. It has closed the public high schools, so that there are no schools to integrate, and is preparing to lease the buildings to private agencies which will open classes to white students only. Segregation will thus be restored.

The move is a subterfuge, of course, an attempt to evade the law rather than defy it directly. But the defiance remains.

Legal steps are now under way by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to halt the leasing arrangement and restore the public school buildings to public use. But the size of the anti-segregation vote — 75 per cent against letting Negroes attend the white schools — indicates that the problem reaches far deeper than court orders, legal manoeuvres and policing actions.

The constitutional guarantee of equality before the law, never before fully implemented, has now run squarely into the historic inequality of the South. It is a battle that may be won by the Federal Government with firmness rather than with force, with education rather than with exhortation, with time rather than with dispatch.

Unfortunately the intervening period will be one of weakness in the unity of the United States, of doubt in the minds of friendly allies, and of anger among the rising populations of non-white men and women in various parts of the world.

We Shot an Arrow in the Air

FROM QUEMOY

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Pawns on the Chess Board

THE cliffs of Quemoy seem to be formed of alternating layers of palest pearl and deepest coral. Under the bright early sun, the embattled beach would be the pride of any sea resort. In truth, the worst-damaged building on the island, the hospital, was built on the beach with the idea of peacetime conversion to a resort hotel. The rule is that you run across the beach from the old C-46 transport to the sheltering caves in the cliffs. But this time, there is no shelling.

(The methodical Communists seem to be accustomed to no more than one arriving plane daily; and they had done their shelling, very thoroughly indeed, for the plane that arrived a little earlier.) So the runners slow to a fast walk before the cliffs are reached.

Behind the cliffs, there is a moon landscape of bare and eroded gullies and draws; and here the battalions have dug themselves and their guns and all their weapons dumps and living facilities right into the cliffside. Any enemy who gained the grimly enfiladed beaches would find a worse hell awaiting him behind the cliffs.

The weapons carrier climbs the gully-side, along a sandy road that has been cut down eight feet into the earth; and at last it comes up onto the centre of the island.

Northwards is the tumble of dark purplish stony hills, where the Chinese high command occupies a central redoubt cut deep in living rock.

Unending Shelling

Southwards is Quemoy Town, which must have been a pretty little place, full of its own little local bustle and life, before the unending shelling muffled the gracefully curved tiled roofs, closed most of the shops and all but emptied the streets.

The Quemoy landscape is doubly strange to those who know China. On the one hand, U.S. aid counterpart funds have been used to plant innumerable trees in Quemoy. The graceful cedars, with their long, dark, frond-like needles, oddly transform this morsel of Chinese countryside into an Italian countryside.

And while this new feature has been added, on the other hand, an invariable feature of every Chinese countryside has been subtracted by the Communist artillery. There are no peasants tilling the little fields, behind the tall windbreaks of silver-plumed esparto grass.

Wherever you go on the island, the shelling is a background noise. Even on a quiet day, it is always going on, with one of Quemoy's guns very occasionally barking its answer to the heavy crump of the enemy shells. It must be pretty bad on the little islands, Erh Tan, Ta Tan, and Little Quemoy, which have been the targets of half the huge total of rounds fired by the enemy.

But big Quemoy is as large an island as Hong Kong. The Communist artillerymen are singularly inefficient. They have been using air-burst and super-quick-fused shells, which do very little damage unless you happen to be in the immediate neighborhood or unless they hit a fairly fragile structure like a Chinese peasant's house.

Trifling Chances

So Quemoy looks a bit pocked here and there, but Quemoy does not look and has not been really badly hurt, even by more than 150,000 rounds of enemy fire. As it is a big place, and the chances of being in the immediate neighborhood of any incoming round are trifling, the slow crump-crump of enemy shells almost ceases to be noticeable after awhile (unless you hear the shell-whistle, which means that they are aiming fairly close).

Besides this slow crumping, the place has its other characteristic sounds and sights. There is the odd sight, for instance, of a school of small amphibious landing craft, looking like a stranded school of porpoises. They wait in a sheltered gully to lumber back across the beach to swim to their mother LST. It will come soon, and a new school of supply-laden small craft will replace these that one sees.

There are the gun positions — every visitor is shown a gun position — with the 155s housed in all but impregnable casemates. The seasoned, efficient gun crews, mostly mainlanders and getting older now, have made their casemates almost homelike in their long spare time.

Little Capt. Peng, commanding the battery, talks wistfully of "my province," which he left some 17 years ago; and he talks proudly of his battery's success with target fire against the enemy guns, which he cannot maintain as he ought to do, because an iron ration of ammunition has to be conserved.

Then there are the villages, like North and South Mountain, near the beach where the invading Communists lost 15,000 men in 1949. Poor oyster fishermen who also grow millet and sweet potatoes live here; but South Mountain also has its big houses built by returning immigrants who made money overseas.

It cannot have been a bad place before the shelling. Now, however, it takes a full five minutes to find a single civilian inhabitant.

Clan Casualty

Young Li Pien-chin, who has lived here all his life, explains that another member of the Li clan was killed that morning by a chance shell that got him when he was bringing in his horse. He shows the way about the place — its great peculiarity is the innumerable massive pig pens, all granite, built before the Quemoy reforestation.

Children seem to spring from the ground to look at the foreigners, but most of the villagers are huddled in the damp tunnel-shelters.

"Many will come out tomorrow, when they have forgotten today's death," says young Li. "We have not lost many, but it is bad that we dare not go out for oysters or work the fields properly any more."

In this fashion, by conversations more or less casual, and by visits more or less arranged, one's impressions accumulate.

At length the visit draws to its close, the moment of the dawn takeoff for Taipei arrives. And this time there is shelling on the beach, but nothing much to worry about. And so one leaves with a sense of the human reality of this little, besieged, bravely-defended place that so many people who are comfortably distant from the human reality would like to treat as a pawn on a chess board. NO RESTRICTIONS

I'm glad there was no such thing as the eight-hour day when I was a young man. I won't say it isn't a boon to others — but if my own life had been restricted to eight-hour days, I don't think I would have accomplished a great deal. This country wouldn't be where it is today if the young men of fifty years ago had been afraid they might earn more than they were paid for!

Ominous Sign

Mr. Lester Pearson's recent speech at Boston, in which he demanded nuclear weapons for the RCAF, is an ominous sign of a trend which must be resisted if we are not to be drawn into the insanity of nuclear war. It is the thin end of the atomic wedge.

Acceptance of these instruments will be to abandon the traditional Canadian policy of official disinterest in nuclear weapons — a policy initiated by the late Liberal administration of which Mr. Pearson was himself a distinguished member. This policy has given moral strength to our national voice, and has earned us the respect and friendship of the important group of "uncommitted nations." These nations may well be the only significant powers remaining after a nuclear war.

This is a field in which "me-too-ism" on the part of Canada is most inappropriate, and will injure our international prestige rather than enhance it. Possession of these weapons will make no contribution whatever towards our defence, but will ensure our involvement in the nuclear lullaby when the next miscalculated risk takes the world finally over the brink.

We may thank God that Canada possesses at this critical time a level-headed and independently-minded government which has shown none of Mr. Pearson's mistaken thirst for the perverted prestige of nuclear megalomania.

It's a New Law

A statement by Kent's Limited that the act governing the shop hours has worked satisfactorily for the past 30 years is incorrect. The act in question came into effect only last April 1. It was passed by the provincial government to eliminate abuses which had been built up over the 30 years.

The former act was known as the Shops Regulations and Weekly Half-Holiday Act and was introduced to protect the employees and make sure they received a half-holiday each week. In the intervening years the half-holiday was established and, as a result of the activities of the unions, the work week was further reduced to five days each week.

While the employees were given new protection the old act was seldom enforced in regard to store hours. Most municipalities watched the law abused and failed to act. This caused drug stores and news stands to develop into variety stores and some grocery stores to operate long past the prescribed closing hours. Most stores respected the law and closed, but in recent years they have found the competition from those who broke the law becoming more acute.

The provincial government, after a thorough investigation by its municipal experts, made the law more specific. Drug stores can now remain open after 1 p.m. on Wednesdays for the sole purpose of filling a prescription. This law also applies after 6 p.m. on other days.

This new law also says grocery stores can only remain open after 1 p.m. on Wednesdays and after 6 p.m. on other days for the purpose of selling designated articles, which do not include meats or canned goods.

The Kent letter inferred that only a dozen or two merchants are supporting the six-day week shopping idea. That opinion is not supported by the present vote being taken by the city council. This vote showed at the latest tally that practically the same number support six day as support the five and one-half day.

While this vote will be helpful to the council, it does not take into account the feeling of the shoppers who want six-day shopping. The five and one-half day supporters say the shoppers have no right to say what hours the stores should remain open. May I ask: Who are they supposed to cater to, the shopper or the store operator?

A SHOPPER.

Hard to Follow

"Jump in exports seen by John D." ran a recent heading on the front page of the Times. The story told of a Vancouver speech by Mr. Diefenbaker in which he forecast a boost in Canada's exports to the U.S., thus curing the business recession.

I hope Mr. Diefenbaker's forecast is correct. However, the curious thing about his address is his apparent return to thinking in terms of U.S. trade. A year or so ago Mr. Diefenbaker was looking down his nose on any suggestion of increasing trade with the U.S.

From the 15 per cent switch Mr. Diefenbaker now does a full 180 degree turn and assures us the end of the recession is near because of new expected boosts in our U.S. exports.

Mr. Diefenbaker's new thinking is more extraordinary still when one takes into account the fact that he had virtually come to Vancouver from Montreal; where he had spoken to the Commonwealth trade conference, which was his conference, called by him to boost Commonwealth trade.

Mr. Diefenbaker's economics are certainly hard to follow. One day he's ranting and raving about the need for less U.S. and more U.K. trade. Next day he lifts tariffs against British woollens and embraces the American market to pull him out of the recession.

How people in London and Washington can know what he's up to is beyond me.

Mr. Diefenbaker might of course be permitted his little game of cheap politics and adolescent economics but for the fact that there are some hundreds of thousands of able-bodied Canadians walking around with nothing to do and facing a bleak winter.

UNEMPLOYED.

'O.K. S.A.' E&OE

By ROWLAND EVANS

THE defence strategy devised for Sherman Adams last June, after the first of the Bernard Goldfine disclosures, was tried out in secret on two carefully-selected guinea-pigs, Sens. Case of New Jersey and Javits of New York.

It would have been difficult to find a more sympathetic sounding board than these two east coast, Eisenhower Republicans, neither of whom has the slightest election worries this year.

And yet, the preview of the impending defence of Mr. Adams that they got from Charles F. Willis Jr., the able former White House official, left Sens. Case and Javits as unmoved as mummies.

The sneak preview came shortly before Mr. Adams went up to the old House office building to testify before the Harris subcommittee. Both Javits and Case felt even then that Mr. Adams' goose was cooked. It had already become an odds-on bet that his defence before the House committee could not save him and that Republican candidates, who had never felt at home with him anyway, would drive him out.

Chilly Reaction

The chilly reaction of Case and Javits should have warned the Adams forces of what lay ahead, but instead it was ignored. This failure to sense the political and philosophic atmosphere that gripped Washington on the heels of the Adams-Goldfine disclosures was the first error of those who thought Mr. Adams could survive.

The second was more grievous and inexplicable. This was Mr. Adams' failure to make the "clean breast" of the full extent of his relationship with Bernard Goldfine.

It was Vice-President Nixon, an acknowledged authority on correct conduct under fire, who told Mr. Adams that if he testified he should without question tell all. Why Mr. Adams did not follow this sound advice and lay bare the detailed history of favors he had received from Goldfine is one of those totally inexplicable mysteries.

He must have known that once he chose to fight it out, all these hidden facts would pop up in the end, as even the most undiscoverable facts have a habit of doing. And when they did, they could not fail to prejudice his case.

Third Error

The third error made by the Adams defence was its failure to sense the decisive character of Sen. Knowland's warning that perhaps Mr. Adams had outlived his usefulness to the President. The warning was soon followed by outright demands for his resignation. The Republicans knew they had lost their hound's tooth.

For example, their 1956 speakers' handbook listed as the second major Eisenhower accomplishment: "Cleaned up the mess in Washington; restored honesty and integrity to government." The newest version of the handbook, just off the press, makes no such claim.

And yet, the President permitted time to pass in the hope that the wolves would somehow stop baying and go away. Finally, of course, the Maine election forced the issue and Mr. Adams made his challenging farewell address.

Although it is not hard to understand how, in bitterness, he was moved to blame his resignation on a "campaign of vilification," the tone of the address has to be judged the final and perhaps the most serious error of all in the sad course of events since last June.

As the Democrats are at great pains to point out, Mr. Adams' departure now stands officially as an act of political expediency, not an act to restore an impeccable standard of conduct in public office.

Two Forecasts

That is the past. The future is unclear, but two forecasts are possible: First, that Vice-President Nixon and the Republican National Committee will move at once to expand their influence on administration policy and absorb some of the purely political functions that have been included in Mr. Adams' broad preserve.

Second, that evidence may soon be at hand to dramatize the President's appeal last June: "I need him." For Gov. Adams surely has that distinctive, rare genius for public administration on which the Eisenhower system wholly depends.

Who else, alone or in combination, can fill his place soon? What substitute is there for the ultimate authority of the "O.K. S.A." that Adams affixed to countless state papers before sending them to the President for final signature?

Perhaps it is the system that must give way in the sudden removal of the man who made it work.

I rejoice over this recognition of ability in psychiatric aides because they are the ones who are in closest contact with the patients; and it is their kindness, knowledge, tact, skill and devotion which contributes most to the success of many a patient's treatment.

Casey Stengel's Half-Century In Baseball

By FRANK GRAHAM JR.

From outside New York, usually recent the Yankees' domination of baseball, but it was different in 1949. Casey Stengel's first season (and perhaps his greatest) as manager. The crippled Yankees were underdogs, battling against a Boston club which had not suffered a single major injury all season.

Now Casey's intrepid squad turned back the Red Sox made baseball history and is told in today's concluding chapter of Stengel's biography, written by Frank Graham Jr.

Casey Stengel's most anxious moments came when he looked at his new club. The Yankees still had some of the most famous names in baseball—DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich, Charley Keller—but age and injuries seemed to be stripping them of their once wonderful skills.

The future of the ball club was not especially bright, and the Yankee empire, in the opinion of many baseball men, faced certain collapse unless Weiss immediately began a vigorous rebuilding job.

The Red Sox, with their devastating attack, seemed about to usurp the Yankees' position as the aristocrats of baseball.

It wasn't until he saw his team on the field at St. Petersburg that Stengel knew with what slender threads it was held together.

There were a number of candidates for first base, but none was promising and it grew more apparent as time went on that Casey might have to have Tommy Henrich, his best outfielder aside from DiMaggio, play that position. Phil Rizzuto, the great little shortstop, was seriously handicapped by a shoulder injury.

The Yankees' unlikely-looking young catcher, Yogi Berra, could hit but he was an unbelievably awkward receiver.

If Henrich moved in to play first base, Stengel's outfield problem would be further complicated. DiMaggio had undergone an operation for the removal of a bone spur from his left heel and the foot was alarmingly slow in healing. Joe was 34, and obviously nearing the end of his career.

Henrich opened the season playing in the outfield and batting in DiMaggio's old cleanup position. As he was to do so often during the 1949 season, Tommy came through with the hit necessary to keep Stengel's day from being ruined. The Yanks were trailing, 2-1, going into the last of the ninth inning. With one man on, Henrich hit a long home run into the right center-field bleachers and Casey won his American League debut, 3-2.

This sudden turn of the tide in the opening game gave the Yankees a tremendous lift.

The Yankees grabbed first place and moved away from the pack, but most baseball men waited for the Red Sox to combine their tremendous power with their strong pitching staff. It seemed only a matter of time before they would hit their stride and overtake the Yankees.

No one had ever seen a Yankee team like Stengel's. This wasn't a team of businessmen ball players in neat pin-striped uniforms; it did not have the superior class or win the easy grace of its predecessors at the stadium.

It won the hard way, going into the dirt and wrestling for the ball game. It played with the exuberance of the old Gas House Gang.

Stengel and the Yankees got a lift when DiMaggio returned to the lineup late in June. He had missed the first 65 games. Still the Red Sox were moving up on them and the Yankees did not appear to have the manpower to hold them off.

Joe's Illness Seemed Crushing Blow

What appeared to be the crushing blow fell on Sept. 18. DiMaggio was rushed to the hospital suffering from a virus. Badly weakened by the attack, he seemed finished for the season.

The Red Sox kept gaining and, on Sept. 26, having held the lead for 148 games, the Yankees dropped into second place. But neither Casey nor his team were ready to be counted out. A week of the schedule still remained to be played. Then there were only three games left, and many writers felt that the Yankees, one game behind, must win all of them to stay alive. They lost the first of the three to Philadelphia, but the Red Sox lost to Washington, and the two contenders prepared for their critical series at New York on the season's final weekend.

DiMaggio, pale and weak after his battle with the flu, was back in the Yankee lineup. The Sox jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the early innings, and Casey put in his relief ace, Joe Page, in the fourth. As the lefthander stifled Boston with his fast ball, his teammates chipped away at the lead. By the eighth inning, the game was tied, 4-4.

Then Johnny Lindell came to bat for the Yankees and hit a long home run into the seats in left field.

One game to go, and Stengel knew that a whole season's work was wrapped up in it—in face, the work of a lifetime. He chose Vic Raschi to pitch against the Red Sox veteran, Ellis Kinder.

In the first inning Phil Rizzuto tripled and eventually scored. Then Raschi and Kinder battled tensely, brilliantly, down to the eighth inning. Here McCarthy, trailing by a run, had to put in a pinch-hitter for Kinder. Boston did not score in the top of that inning, and then the Yankees broke loose against Mel Parnell. Henrich crashed a home run to lead off and, after the Yanks had filled the bases, Coleman cleared them with a double to right. Leading 5-0 in the ninth, Raschi tired a little and Boston scored three runs. Finally, with two out and a runner on, Henrich grabbed a pop fly for the third out, the game and the pennant.

It was a happy and satisfying moment for Stengel. The old man had confounded his critics, pleased and amazed his friends and convinced even those of little faith.

The World Series was an anticlimax. The Dodgers had won in the National League, also on the final day, but they looked less imposing to the Yankees than the powerful Red Sox had been.

The Yankees won in five games and Casey had done one of the greatest managing jobs of all time.

Thus began the most durable reign any team, or any one man, has enjoyed in baseball. The 1949 triumph was the first of five straight world championships captured by Stengel and his ball club, surpassing by one the achievement of Joe McCarthy's Yankees of 1923-28.

Warren Has Secret; Casey Isn't Talking

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's wise old campaigner, promised Monday he'll be a "new" pitcher against New York Yankees in the World Series opener here Wednesday.

Manager Fred Haney's announcement of Spahn as his first game pitcher came as no surprise. The shocker came when the 37-year-old left-hander declared he is going to pitch "altogether differently" against the Yankees this time.

This from a fellow who beat the Yankees once last October, dropped a heart-breaking 1-0 decision to them in another start, and went on to win 22 games during the regular season this year.

"Yes," he said, "I'm going to pitch differently against them this time."

KNOWS THEM BETTER

"I think I know the Yankee hitters better now. Last year I went by the scouting reports. They were all right, but there's nothing like personal contact. I think I learned a great deal from my experience with them in the 1957 series."

Asked what he learned about the Yankee hitters, Spahn grinned broadly and said: "That's my secret."

He said he's "got ideas." "I won't be able to tell how good they are until I get in there and know what I have to work with. Sometimes, you have four, five good pitches going for you. Other times you have only one or two."

CHANGED STYLE

Spahn said he changed his pitching style this year in preparation for the return engagements with the Yankees.

"If you pitch the same way year after year the hitter sets a pattern relative to your pitching style and before long he gets to know what's coming. So you have to make changes to meet the hitter's challenge."

Spahn believes the Braves are in better position to win this year than they were last year.

"We have so much more in our favor this time. The club has the confidence of a champion."

"We weren't scared last year but I don't care who you are—if you've got senses, any nerves at all, you've got to be edgy in a World Series."

Stan Musial, Dodgers Set Records

NEW YORK (AP)—A single game attendance mark and two more batting standards set by Stan Musial highlight the output of records which will be written into the books as a result of the 1958 major league baseball season.

Los Angeles set the big league single game attendance mark by drawing 78,672 into the Coliseum April 18.

Musial broke two of Mel Ott's National League records—most total bases, 5,289 and most extra bases on long hits, 2,205.

Dave Philley of the Philadelphia Phillies set a major league mark by collecting eight pinch-hits in succession. Gus Zernial of Detroit slammed his ninth life-time pinch-hit homer to tie a big league record.

The Cincinnati Redlegs tied a major league defensive record by finishing a club average of .983.

Lose 10th Straight Game; Bombers Win Fifth in Row

By The Canadian Press

The Western Conference standings shifted in the fifth Monday night as the top team climbed back again and the bottom one continued to sink.

At the top, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, in their fifth consecutive victory for an 8-2 record, whipped second-place Edmonton Eskimos 43-13 as fullback Charlie Shepard turned in a 19-point performance that included three touchdowns.

At the bottom, British Columbia Lions were beaten again, this time with fullback Jack Hill contributing 20 points, including three touchdowns on passes, in a 22-6 victory for Saskatchewan Roughriders at Vancouver.

It was Lions' 10th consecutive 1958 league defeat. Thus, they surpassed by one loss the one-season record they set in 1954, when they won only one of 16 games in their first year in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The Saskatchewan victory boosted the Riders into a second-place tie with Edmonton, with Riders having a game in hand. The idle Calgary Stampeders were dropped into third place by one point.

GOOD PASS ATTACK

At Vancouver, the 20,226 fans were treated to quarterback Frank Tripucka at his passing best.

He chose Hill as the receiver for three touchdowns passes—one for five yards in the second quarter, another for eight yards in the third, and finally another for five with 40 seconds left in the game.

The versatile Hill converted two of his own TDs and Reg Whitehouse converted the other. Larry Isbell kicked a first-quarter single.

A 29-yard pass from quarterback George Herring to Sonny Homer in the fourth quarter accounted for the only B.C. scoring.

Roughriders had 19 first downs to B.C.'s 14, but trailed in rushing, 184 yards to 141.

Van Pelt, calling a masterful game, fired two touchdown passes to fullback Bob McNamara and converted all six Winnipeg TDs. Roseborough threw one touchdown pass—a 68-yard play with Ernie Pitts on the scoring end.

Shepard, who led the Winnipeg ground attack with 109 yards in 18 carries, scored his three touchdowns on short line plunges. Two of them were set up by Edmonton fumbles, the third on Pitts' 68-yard run-back of an Eskimo kickoff.

Parker scored both Edmonton touchdowns on seven and three-yard runs. Joe Mobra converted one.

PERFECT PLAYOFF RECORD

Millers Grind Away; Sweep Little Series

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Millers won the little world series title Monday night by crushing Montreal 7-1 for a four-game sweep that ran their playoff winning string to 11 straight.

Tom Borland, 25-year-old Miller lefthander, retired 20 consecutive batters between the second and ninth innings after his club had bombed Bobby Gialombardo for five runs in the third, all the Millers needed. Borland yielded five hits and struck out seven to climax a season of strong-armed Minneapolis pitching that carried the Millers to third place in the American Association.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the American Association over the International League in their annual post-season playoff.

Rookie right fielder Lu Clinton, who batted only 251 during the regular season, was the big hitter for Minneapolis. He batted a bases-loaded triple in a five-run third inning and then hit a solo homer in the seventh.

MOVIE CAREER FOR PAIGE?

Ol' Satchel Always Was an Actor

By BOB MYERS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The long and matchless baseball career of Leroy (Satchel) Paige may have reached its end.

Ol' Satch, a living legend, so disclosed today. Film producer Chester Erskine announced that the ageless Negro pitching star has been signed for a feature role in a movie, The Wonderful Country.

It is a one-picture deal but Erskine has ambitious plans for Paige as a full-time actor.

Paige confirmed the news in a telephone talk from his home in Kansas City.

In typical Paige maner, he said:

"I'm not runnin' out of baseball. It's jus' that mebbe baseball is runnin' out of Satchel."

Satchel, something of an actor anyhow, was asked what he thought of the role as a livelihood.

"I like the idea very much. I kin still play baseball but it looks like somebody doan like of Satchel."

He explained that he was "top pitcher" for the last three years with Miami in the International League.

"But I ain't got to be in the all-star game a single year."

SATCHEL PAIGE

I doan understan' it, but that's the way it seems to be."

Paige will report to the movie company in Mexico City Oct. 8. He had just arranged for his passport to Kansas City. The obvious question? "What age did you put down?"

"I said fo'ty-nine, same as I am. And the man said, well, I'm the only one that knows, so he puts down fo'ty-nine."

"How long have you been playing baseball, Satchel?"

"Fo'ty years," said Satchel, truthfully.

Satchel plays the role of a sergeant in the Texas-locale play from the book by Thomas Lea.

Paige didn't indicate too much worry about playing alongside such film stars as Robert Mitchum and Julie London.

"I'll study up on my script and, like I always did in baseball, eat and sleep it. I likes the idea of this money in movies. If I can make the grade, me and baseball is through."

Paige spent his great years in obscure Negro leagues and winter barnstorming tours. He earned a fortune but until the ban was lifted for major league play, Satchel's fame was clouded.

Bill Vecek signed him for the Cleveland Indians in 1948. He helped the Indians win the world championship that year.

FABLED PITCHER LIKES IDEA

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY Doug Peden

Like millions of fans around the country, the Yankees were bored as they went through the mechanics of wrapping up their ninth pennant in 10 years.

The American League has been so easy for the Bronx Bombers that some of them, Mickey Mantle, for example, apparently can't recall how many World Series they have been in.

"All but one since I came," Mantle told a telecaster after vainly struggling with his memory on the day the New Yorkers clinched their 24th flag in 38 years.

Some of Mickey's pals may have a better knowledge of Yankee history, but the listless manner in which Casey Stengel's crew staggered into the World Series and memories of the 1957 classic have convinced a lot of guys—especially the Braves—that the world championship pennant will still be flying over County Stadium next spring.

Although yesterday's betting odds favored the Yanks, 13-10, it has become a common notion that the Braves will again scalp the Bombers and the opening pitch Wednesday.

One Milwaukee scout has called the American League kings "grossly over-rated," and Yankee haters are quick to point out that Spahn has had another great year, Burdette gave up only two runs in 27 innings last time, and the Braves still have Henry Aaron, Eddie Mathews, and the rest.

Casey has Bob Turley, a 21-game winner, and a sound Whitey Ford, the southpaw Ty Cobb calls the best pitcher in baseball, but the Yankees are dismissed because of their pitching. Grim tales are told of the sad mound staff Stengel has had to suffer with since the all-star game.

Joe Was Still Around in 1951 Series

Which is fine and undoubtedly makes sense. But you fellows itching to get some money down on Sudsville might remember a few facts before reaching for the folding stuff, even if you choose to ignore the certainty that the money that goes to the winning end of a World Series and bitter reminders that they blew against the Braves last time will awaken the Bombers like a booby-trapped alarm clock.

The pitch that Russ Meyer threw to Mantle in the final game of the 1953 series is one. The bases were loaded and Mickey was swinging left-handed. He hit the ball so far into the left-centrefield seats that it was difficult to believe. That shot was the difference in the game.

The stumbling, limping Mantle of 1955, for another. He got into only three games and the Dodgers won their only world crown. Last year, able to swing only from one side of the plate and in pain every time he did, Mickey was a patsy for Burdette and company.

Records show that Mantle has been hurt in three World Series. The Yankees lost two of them, and in the other—in 1951—it really didn't matter because Joe DiMaggio was still patrolling centrefield, and when Joe D. was around the other side could expect to get hurt.

Nobody Wallops Them Any Mightier

Milwaukee opinions are being formed with little worry about Mantle. The dead-panned, off-injured slugger struck out enough to drive Casey crazy this season. But he hit 42 home runs, batted around .300 and drew a base on balls just about as many times as he waved at a third strike.

You've got to consider Mantle in a best-of-seven series, where one or two good swings could change it all.

To resort to the tedium of figures for a moment, 12 of the 21 games in the last three World Series were won by one or two runs. A mighty wallop is usually the difference. And nobody wallops them mightier than the Oklahoma muscle-man.

In six World Series, including brief appearances in 1951, '53 and '57, he hit nine home runs. That, in itself, is nothing to scare the opposition. But Mickey's healthy this time. And swinging from both sides of the dish, he has to be figured for at least two shots into the stands. It could be four or five.

Also, Mantle is overdue for a great series, just as Burdette is dead due to get shell-shock somewhere along the line in this one.

So think a moment about Mickey Mantle. Remember how far he can hit a baseball.

Then go out and bet on the Braves—if you still want to go against Mantle.

Yacht Race Rules May Be Altered

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — An uncertain future awaits Columbia, new mistress of sea racers, and the same goes for the America's Cup regatta.

Indications today are that the races never may be contested again with such fragile, costly toys as the 12-metre international class.

"Personally," said Briggs Cunningham, who skipped Columbia to a four-straight sweep over Britain's Sceptre, "I would prefer to see the America's Cup held with more of the sea-going type of boat."

He got at least an oblique "amen" from financier Henry Sears, who headed the syndicate which paid $500,000 for Columbia's defence, and some encouragement from the British.

"I think the rules should be changed to relax some of the rigid specifications now attached to the race," said Sears, "worth less than $200."

TEE TOPICS

Kerr, Andrews Retain Buttons

By GRAHAM COX

George Andrews and Laurie Kerr carried on in the tradition they have set themselves Sunday when they turned back the Uplands Golf Club duo of Fred Ranson and Danny McLean in their second Open Button defence of the season.

Over their home Colwood course, Andrews and Kerr ran up a 4 and 3 victory.

Sunday they will move out on their third defence of the season, this time not at home. The play will be over the arduous Gorge Vale roller coaster course with Oak Bay's George Bigelow and Laurie Carroll providing the opposition.

In junior button activity at the weekend, also at Colwood, Jim McCall and Roy Chappell, Gorge, stole the gallery from the seniors with their one-up victory over Oak Bay challengers Bill Carlow and Al Manson.

They will follow 15 minutes after the seniors at Gorge Sunday in a 12.45 match against Dick Munn and Ken Greenwood of Cedar Hill.

The first Presidents' vs. Captains' match since the Second World War was played over Gorge Vale Sunday with 80 entrants and the Presidents' side taking the honors by a 28-21 count.

Feature shot of the match was Junior Al McLeod's hole in one.

At Nanaimo Sunday, a 16-man Colwood team lost an inter-club match, but won the laurels in a home-and-home series with the up-island club's team.

With a total 144 points at stake, Colwood entered the event with a 51-21 edge after play at Colwood two weeks ago.

They escaped with a 15-point over-all bulge as they lost out Sunday, 43-28.

The tourney was one of their first outings under new club captain Mickey Bartkow, who stepped up from the vice-captain's position when Dick Hanley was transferred to Vancouver by his firm last week.

Another change is in the offing at Colwood with the accepted resignation of club secretary Cec Watson.

After two years with the club, Cec is starting to find the task a bit heavy, and he'd like to have more time for a few rounds himself once in a while.

The popular secretary will remain at his post until Oct. 15, by which time the club directors hope to have found a replacement for him.

DETROIT CLUB REBUILDING

Wings Gambling on Rookies

By SID ABEL
Coach, Detroit Red Wings

DETROIT (UPI)—We have a lot of kids in training with the Red Wings this year. That is why it's hard to predict how we will finish in the 1958-59 National Hockey League race. We could wind up anywhere from second to last place.

I'm figuring on carrying 12 forwards, five defencemen and Terry Sawchuk, of course, in goal. Half those forwards will be new to us.

most of 'em strange to the NHL. It's quite a gamble but we've got to the point where we must rebuild.

Our No. 1 line doesn't have any rookies, but even that's new. We're playing Alex Delvecchio at left wing with Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman, and ever since Alex has been with the Wings, which is seven years, he has played centre.

I don't think, however, that this will bother him. He's playing with fellows who criss-cross and switch over, anyway, and they're all good puck carriers and dippy-doodlers. Like when Howe was playing with Ted Lindsay and myself.

The big surprise is rookie Charlie Burns, who played for the Whitey Dunlops who beat the Russians last year. Charlie is 22 and a centre. Once he cracked his skull, and now he wears a silver plate in it and a helmet over his head. He's got good size and he'll centre for Johnny Wilson and Dunc Fisher. We got Fisher from Hershey.

I have a third line of Forbes Kennedy, Nick Mickoski and Claude Laforee, the latter up from Shawinigan Falls.

As defencemen Schmidt has added Doug Mohs of his own Bruins, Red Kelly of Detroit, and Dollard St. Laurent, sold by Canadiens to Chicago since last season.

Schmidt will have four centres—Red Sullivan of New York, Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, Billy Harris of Toronto and Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago.

Wingers added are Jerry Toppanini, Boston; Dick Duff and Bob Pulford, Toronto, and Don McKenney, Boston.

NHL Picks Club To Meet Habs

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League has announced the names of players who will face the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens in the league's 12th annual all-star game here Oct. 4.

Of the 18 named, seven were official selections last spring for the first and second all-star teams. Five all-star choices are members of the Montreal team and will play for their club.

Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins, who will handle the all-stars in the meeting with the champions, dipped liberally into the lineups of the remaining NHL teams to round out his squad.

Montrealers remaining with their team are defencemen Doug Harvey and forwards Dickie Moore and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard from the first all-star team and goalie Jacques Plante and centre Jean Beliveau from the second team.

THE OPPOSITION

Those of the all-star teams who will play for Schmidt are goalie Glenn Hall, Chicago; defencemen Bill Gadsby and forwards Andy Bathgate and Camille Henry, New York; defencemen Marcel Pronovost and forward Gordie Howe, Detroit, and defencemen Fern Flaman, Boston.

DEFENCE APPEARS SET

Wings Gambling on Rookies

Mickoski hurt his shoulder in training and he's a doubtful starter. So it may be Jack McIntyre in his place.

Then we've got another line of Len Lunde, Edmonton rookie, between Gerry Ehman of Springfield and Billy McNeill. Ehman was a 40-goal scorer in the AHL.

The defence looks fine. Red Kelly spent the summer on the farm. He's in great shape. We got Gus Mortonson from Chicago and I know what he can do. The other defence team of Warren Godfrey and Marcel Pronovost is set. And Pete Goegan should be No. 5.

Any way you look at it, it's quite a reconstruction job, one we had to make.

EARL OF HOME REVIEWS TRADE HERE

He'll Eat Our Salmon For Diplomacy's Sake

EARL OF HOME... big role for Canada.

"For the sake of Anglo-Canadian relations I am prepared to eat British Columbia canned salmon for the rest of my life," the Earl of Home, Britain's secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, said in Victoria Monday.

The scion of an old Scottish family, Lord Home pointed out that there is an abundance of salmon in the rivers and streams of his native Scotland. But he was happy to know that, as a result of the Commonwealth Economic Conference in Montreal, there will now be adequate supplies of B.C. salmon on the British market.

He was addressing a joint meeting of the Gyro Club and the Canadian Club of Victoria at the Empress Hotel.

He said the Montreal conference had underlined the reality of inter-dependence in trade and development between sterling countries and between the sterling area and the dollar world.

No 'Satellites'

"If it had not been for Britain's colonial policy," he added, "the colonial countries of the Commonwealth would never have been represented at this conference."

These colonial statesmen—many of them in their ceremonial robes—were not there as satellites. They had full authority and status and they knew that British administration had made them what they are."

He said British colonial policy alone had created the opportunity for India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and Malaya to play their parts as influential members of the 20th-century world.

"Nigeria is on the near approach to independence and the West Indies are taking their evolution a stage forward through the organization of federation.

"If there is impatience for the system to be extended to others more quickly, that is a recognition of its merits."

"Perhaps the greatest value of the new Commonwealth to its members and to the world is its demonstration that it is possible for peoples of widely differing character to live together, not only in peace, but in a dynamic creative partnership."

Stronger Pound

In finance and economics few nations could afford to stand alone.

"Half the trade of the world is conducted in sterling and experience has proved beyond doubt that each member of the area is materially strengthened by reason of our close co-operation."

"Therefore, it is in the interests of the Commonwealth that we should strengthen the pound sterling."

(Lord Home said in an interview afterwards that he did not mean the pound sterling should be re-valued towards parity with the dollar. "That is not contemplated," he said.)

In his address he said Canada and Britain have common roots, socially and politically, which spring from the Christian religion, French and English law and culture, the English genius for administration and Scottish education.

'Promised Land'

"Canada is now in a very special position to help all members of the Commonwealth to realize their hopes," Lord Home said.

"But please don't write off Britain as an old and decrepit nation. We are as young and vigorous as ever and well able to play our part in shaping the new world ahead."

DERAILED EARL WENT WITHOUT HIS LUNCHEON

The Earl of Home, Britain's secretary of Commonwealth relations, arrived in Victoria five hours late Monday as the result of a derailment on the CPR line from Banff.

Lord Home left the train at Mission and was raced by road to Vancouver where an RCAF plane was laid on to fly him to Victoria.

He reached the Empress Hotel at 1 p.m.—half an hour after a joint luncheon meeting of the Gyro Club and the Canadian Club of Victoria had started—and addressed the meeting without lunch.

CPR Rejects New Talks On Firemen

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway has rejected a demand from the firemen's union to reopen contract talks on the diesel firemen issue, it was learned Monday.

Despite this refusal, the railway agreed to meet with union negotiators Wednesday in Montreal to discuss other union demands, including an 18 per cent wage increase.

The CPR twice caught in nation-wide strikes over the diesel dispute—based its rejection of the union demand on a legal point.

The railway said in a letter to the union the agreement ending the firemen's strike in May settled the issue of firemen on diesel yard and freight engines.

"Such an agreement is, by law, not subject to revision at this time except by consent," the railway told the union in the letter, sent Sept. 24. "Canadian Pacific is not prepared to give such consent."

The union, it was understood, is consulting its lawyers for an opinion on the CPR contention.

Breweries Hit Record Volume

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Canadian Breweries Ltd. business volume hit a record peak of $211,040,382 in the first nine months of this year. Sales of $85,655,673 were reported for the quarter ending July 31. Common share dividends were $1.36, an increase of 10 cents over the same period a year ago. In the first nine months of 1958 net earnings increased 9% per cent over the same period last year.

Jewellers and other firms which benefit from the peak of wedding bells should have used liberal amounts of black ink in recording profit and loss figures during August.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports 15,696 marriages in August compared with 12,771 in the same month last year. The cumulative total for the first eight months is about the same as last year.

Number of births dropped off slightly. A total of 38,032 births was registered against 40,132 in August, 1957. There were 9,554 deaths during the month, compared with 9,824 for the same period a year ago. In B.C. the August, 1958, totals with August, 1957, figures in brackets were: Births, 2,192 (3,137); marriages, 1,078 (1,224), and deaths, 1,097 (1,003).

Cascade Lode Mines Ltd. reports success in the first phase of its attempt to rehabilitate its White Star gold mine at Zeballos on Vancouver Island.

The company is exploring gold-bearing veins typical to that which yielded gold valued at $5,983,702 to Privateer Mine Ltd. from 1939 to 1944. Privateer paid $1,914,182 in dividends.

Cascade's own diamond drill intersected gold ore eight inches wide which assayed 2.16 ounces gold and two ounces silver per ton, worth $75.60 per ton at $35 per ounce for gold.

The company says negotiations are well advanced which may lead to exploration of an iron property four and one-half miles from Zeballos. According to the company this property has an exposure of magnetite carrying iron values of 60 per cent to 68 per cent and free of impurities which would incur penalties at a smelter.

Cascade Lode is headed by Harry A. Theilman. Directors are L. C. Way, W. J. Alton, John Harper, Frank Herbert and Hugh Scuse.

BA Oil's $25 million gas processing and sulphur plant at Pincher Creek, Alta., has begun delivering processed gas to the Alberta Gas Trunk Line. This is the first of a series of steps which will link the Pincher Creek field with eastern markets. The field will be the largest single supplier to the Trans-Canada pipeline when it goes into operation.

Regular delivery of gas will begin Nov. 1 under a 25-year contract between BA and Trans-Canada. It is estimated that the pipeline will take an average of 70 million cubic feet per day during the first year.

Finally... an owner of a forest in Scotland objected to unauthorized people strolling in his private woodland. To keep out trespassers he posted a sign which read: "Attention! Danger! In this wood are Corylus Anellana!" Actually, the latter is merely the Latin designation for hazel nuts!

After getting off to a firm start most futures, excepting soybeans turned downward halfway through the session, erasing early gains. Later, the trend was reversed and most commodities turned upward once more.

Fair trade was reported in barley. Shippers and exporters were buyers. Trade reports indicated parcel lots totalling more than a 350,000-bushel cargo were sold to the United Kingdom.

Oats trade was domestic. Flax was active with selling in connection with October contracts going on a deliverable basis Wednesday and buying by U.S. and international accounts. Rye trade was quiet.

Trade reports indicated details were proceeding on the sale of 14 cargoes of Canadian wheat to India. Unofficial reports said the deal involved 5,200,000 bushels. (The Indian Food Ministry announced in New Delhi it had bought 141,000 tons of Canadian wheat for $8,800,000.)

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included 900,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 135,000 to Venezuela and a small lot to Rhodesia.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged from Monday.

LIBERAL PARTY STALWARTS from all over Vancouver Island discussed organizing problems with Lester Pearson during his visit Monday. Above, Robert Hutchison, Victoria

PEARSON DIG

Budget Boasts By Bennett To Backfire?

British Columbia's policy of asking federal assistance on the one hand, and proclaiming the excellent financial health of the province on the other, was questioned by Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson Monday.

Mr. Pearson visited Victoria in the course of a nation-wide organizational tour.

Asked whether he felt Ottawa would accede to the B.C. government's request for $2,000,000 toward this year's fire-fighting costs, or whether he supported a B.C. proposal for federal railway subsidies to reduce need for freight rate increases, Mr. Pearson said:

"The federal government should intervene only when a disaster is beyond the financial powers of the provincial government."

Otherwise, he said, the federal government might ask additional controls of matters now in provincial jurisdiction, in return.

"I've been reading a pamphlet put out by the party in government here claiming this is the most prosperous province in Canada . . . and soon will be debt free."

"I expect the federal government will consider this carefully, in view of the requests for federal aid," smiled Mr. Pearson.

U.S. SHOULD BE MADE TO UNDERSTAND

Canada Has No Obligation In Formosa Crisis—Pearson

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The United States should be made to understand that Canada cannot be committed to any action Americans may take in the Formosa crisis, Liberal leader Lester Pearson said here Monday night.

He said the Americans must be told Canada is under no obligation except as a member of the United Nations Assembly.

"We should be able to settle this matter by statesmanlike diplomacy and patience, Mr. Pearson said.

500 LIBERALS

The Nobel Peace Prize winner was addressing a meeting of 500 Liberals from all parts of Vancouver Island at Holyrood House.

Quietly and earnestly—with out rhetoric—the Liberal leader said:

"It would be a tragic folly if the situation over these two islands were allowed to deteriorate into a major armed conflict.

"We must pray tonight that the resources of diplomacy will be brought to bear on this problem, and perhaps through the United Nations some solution can be reached whereby Formosa can be separated from Communist China."

Turning to domestic affairs, Mr. Pearson warned against the dangers of state control.

"Every time we ask something of the state; every time we ask the city to intervene in our lives, we increase the power of the state. It is futile to talk of more freedom when we ask the state to do more and more."

HARD TASK
"Somehow we have to combine freedom and security, and the reconciliation of these two things is the most difficult task facing us today."

On a one-day visit to Victoria, Mr. Pearson said the purpose of his nation-wide tour was two fold:

1. To make a report to his fellow Liberals in Ottawa.

2. To make a journey of exploration enabling him to get the opinions of people throughout the country.

"At no time in our history have we been confronted with more serious problems on the domestic and international front than today."

"To be successful in such times a political party must have members devoted to the ideals of the party, policies based on principles which command the loyalty and support of its members, and a strong organization in which these policies can be realized in practical political action.

"For the organization of a party to be successful it must have its root deep in the constituencies.

"If we examine the causes of our defeat in the last two general elections, and learn from them, we shall be able to re-group our strength, re-establish our position and face the future with confidence that we shall again be called on to lead Canada in its growth and development.

"Our party must keep close to the people and must continue in the future, as it has in the past, a progressive party—a party of youth, enterprise and vigor.

"We have in the past been a party of principles and ideals. People expect us to have something worth fighting for and they look to us for change and reform. But reform without principles can lead to undesirable results.

NEW WAYS

"We must find new ways of adapting our Liberal principles to the problems of today. As long as we are true to Liberalism, we will believe that the individual comes before the state. But one of the great dangers to our modern society are the demands that are now being made by the individual on the state."

'Liquor, Speed Mixed Thoroughly'—Coroner

Hours of Drinking Before Fatal Crash

A vibrant warning against mixing "liquor and speed" was made today by coroner Dr. E. C. Hart at the inquest into the death Friday of Donald George Campbell, 32, of 35 Obed Avenue.

Verdict was that death was "accidental."

"Liquor and speed were thoroughly mixed in this case," he said.

It was "sordid." He added: "You can't indict a man who is dead."

Campbell was killed and four persons injured shortly before 10 p.m. Friday in a collision between the car he was driving and a car driven by Mrs. Isabelle Collins, Scott Road, at the junction of Lockside and Patricia Bay Highway.

His chest was crushed. Noreen, 13, daughter of Mrs. Collins, suffered a broken nose. Mrs. Gloria Hunt, 28, 35 Obed, a rear-seat passenger in the U-drive death car, testified to hours of off-and-on drinking prior to the fatal accident, including herself and the driver. The other car passengers were Mrs. Jean Currie, 29, of 35 Obed, and Gordon Alan Provins, RCN.

Mrs. Hunt suffered facial cuts and bruises; Provins suffered cuts, and Mrs. Currie sustained facial lacerations and had a tooth knocked out.

They had consumed beer in the Douglas Hotel, then had gone to the Naval Veterans club, rooms and had more beer; then, picked up a case of beer and a "mickie" of rum before heading for Sidney.

Woman Poured Liquor Out Window

The rum was consumed with "coke" by the men when the car was parked "by the water," she said.

"I made out I was taking some but poured it out the window."

Mrs. Hunt said the party continued at the Naval Vets club in Sidney to about 8.30 p.m.

"What was Mr. Campbell's condition?" asked Cpl. W. J. Stanton, RCMP officer who investigated the tragedy.

"He said he was quite tired." "Was he under the influence of liquor?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Hunt said the dead man had been drinking "before we met him at the Douglas."

He had been playing the piano at the Naval Vets here and in Sidney. "He was a good piano player."

First person on the accident scene was Robert Courtney, Bazan Bay. He said a car had passed him on the highway travelling at a "terrific speed—75 to 80."

"We got around a corner and there was the accident. They hit head on. A case of beer was embedded in the front seat. He (Campbell) was alive when we got him out."

The driver was dead when examined by Dr. C. H. Hemmings about 15 minutes after the crash.

Two Injured In Truck, Car Accidents

Two people were given hospital treatment after car and truck crashes in the city Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, 77, of 3760 Carey, was admitted at Jubilee Hospital with a head injury and possible rib fracture after a car driven by William J. Reynolds, of the same address, was in collision with a car driven by Ivan Jugunovic, 2522 Empire, at 4.30 p.m.

Carson Fairclough, 300 Catherine, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a forehead cut and possible neck injury after the collision of trucks driven by Kenneth R. Suddaby, 1250 Union, and Thomas M. Chorney, 848 Old Esquimalt, at Government and Queens.

Advance Budget Asked for City Works Projects

Procedural change in setting up annual budget expenditures to enable public works maintenance programs to get off to an early start was recommended to city council by public works committee today.

City Engineer James Garnett strongly favored allocation of 50 per cent of a previous year's public works budget in advance of the regular budget normally set in April or May.

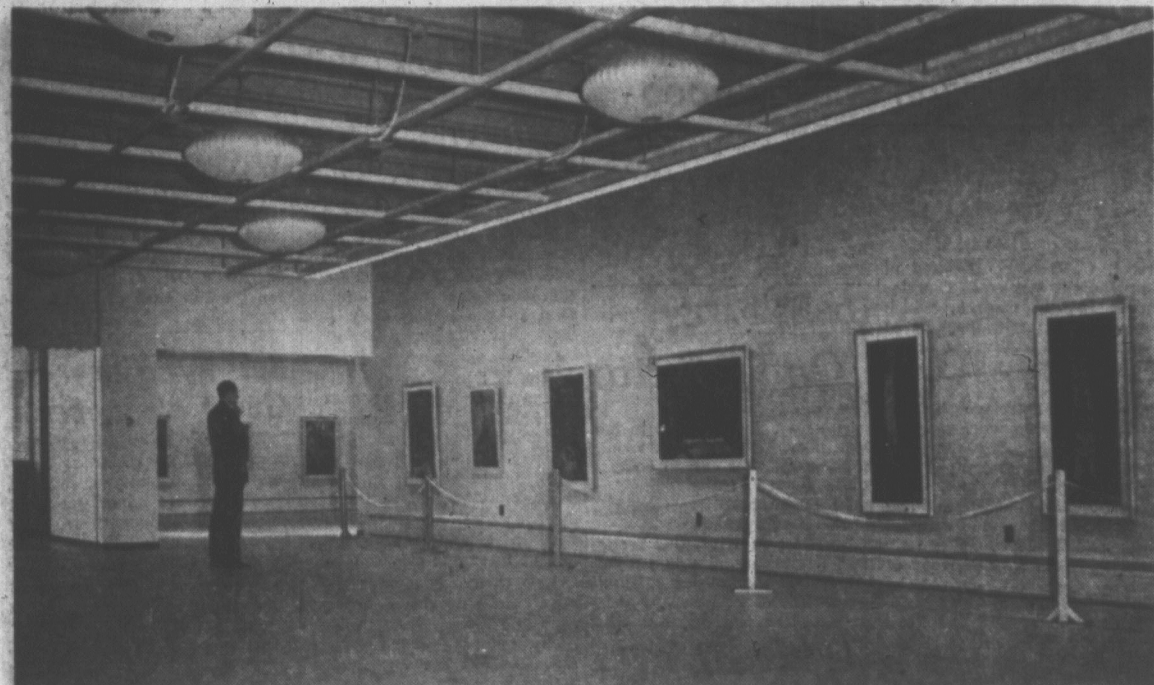

The idea originally was advanced to council by Ald. A. I. Curtis.

Mr. Garnett said the proposed system would enable his department to eliminate present waste of good construction weather in spring when programs are held up pending the budget vote.

He said the new system would improve efficiency and planning without loosening control over expenditures by council.

Under the present system, the late budget forces the whole year's construction program into a four or five-month season.

"This year, for instance, we are way behind on our program," he said.

STERN YET BEAUTIFUL SIMPLICITY of new Centennial Art Gallery wing interior sets off 40 paintings now on display there from brush of famed Victoria artist Emily Carr, whose collection of some 150 paintings were bequeathed in trust to people of B.C. It is first large show here in gallery of Miss Carr's work which has won international, continuing acclaim. All her pictures eventually will be shown here.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

I feel sure our genial publicity commissioner, George I. Warren, will agree with Liberal leader Lester Pearson when he said that during the recent ferry strikes the whole of Canada was isolated from Vancouver Island!

A grimly humorous story of atomic annihilation is told by Gerald R. Coghlin, MBE, veteran Reuter correspondent, now staying at the Empress Hotel.

In 1988, says Mr. Coghlin, peering into his time machine, an atomic explosion in the South Pacific destroyed every living thing on earth except one small monkey.

Lonely and hungry, the monkey wandered the Pacific looking for food and companionship and one day, to his surprise, he encountered a small female monkey.

"I'm so hungry," he told her, "I don't know what to do."

"Don't worry," she said, "I've got a nice big apple for you."

"Oh, no!" cried the male monkey, "don't start that all over again..."

Some people I know left their clocks on Daylight Time

Sunday just for the pleasure of going to church at noon. Others kept them that way till Monday morning for the satisfaction of going to work one hour late!

In town this weekend, Sir Evelyn Wrench, CMG, founder of the English Speaking Union, told of his lifelong ambition to get rid of his Oxford accent.

"But it's no use," he sighed. "I overheard a couple of American page boys discussing me and one said: 'He's a mighty nice guy but I don't understand a word he says.'"

Hume Sweet Hume!

The Earl of Home (pronounced Hume), now gracing the Empress Hotel, is the holder of a peerage created in Scotland in 1473 and is the 14th Earl of Home.

Recalling his student days at Oxford, he tells how the Master of Balliol encountered a Church of England Bishop in the dark quadrangle after a college celebration.

Both were unsteady on their feet but the Master was determined to say the right thing.

"Good morning, my lord bishop," he said, "I trust it is only your boots that are tight."

Widow To Stand Trial

FOR THE PAST SIX YEARS executive officer of HMCS Malahat, reserve navy training establishment here, Cmdr. J. G. Garrard has been appointed commanding officer. He succeeds Capt. G. A. V. Thomson, vice-principal of Victoria High School. Cmdr. Garrard commenced his naval career in 1938 as a sub-lieutenant; during the war years held a variety of appointments afloat and ashore.

Mrs. Alice Louella Kerr, charged with the death of her 56-year-old husband Aug. 10 at their Pender Island home, was committed for trial today following a five-day preliminary hearing in Victoria RCMP court.

She will appear at the fall Assizes which start here next week.

An application for dismissal by defence counsel Alan Macfarlane was rejected by Magistrate A. I. Thomas who said:

"I do not think it is the duty of this court, although empowered to do so, but a matter for a higher court to decide."

Mrs. Kerr had nothing to say. In Mr. Macfarlane's application for dismissal, he said "she should not be put through the tortures of a trial when the evidence of the preliminary hearing is what we have here."

"I can't think of any evidence in this case which is consistent with murder," he said, pointing at three witnesses who had said Albert Kerr, the deceased, had told them he was going to kill himself.

He pointed out that the Crown had to prove beyond a reasonable doubt, and claimed that in this case the Crown hadn't even a prima facie case.

Explaining that it was an unusual case, he asked the magistrate to consider whether or not there was sufficient evidence to induce the belief "in the mind of a cautious man" that the accused was guilty.

There was almost more evidence to show suicide, he stated. Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie admitted there were threats of self-destruction in the evidence, but also that on four occasions accused had threatened the accused.

He said evidence was inconsistent with any other reasonable conclusion than murder.

Final crown witness was Dennis Patrick Burns, Port Washington, a caretaker, who had known Albert Kerr three years.

"Kerr had spoken of suicide in his presence," he said, "about a month before his death."

"He said he was going to shoot himself."

He recalled the dead man as "a big overgrown boy" despite his 56 years.

After the shooting, he said he told a neighbor "so Bert finally did it."

SECOND SUMMER WARMS VICTORIA

September bowed out today on a gracious note of Indian summer, with bright sunshine, temperatures in the high sixties, and a forecast for more of the same to start October.

Incomplete figures for the month showed it to be a "normal" summer for Victoria—where "normal" is spelled "LOVELY."

The small boat operator who forgot his outboard motor at Kinner Beach launching ramp Sunday afternoon can claim it from Esquimalt police on proof of ownership.

Police said the motor was found about 5 p.m.

Minimum requirements for the installation of fluorescent fixtures will be the subject of an address by M. F. Schwartz, Victoria's electrical inspector, to the season's first meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building, tonight at 8.

The Exchequer Court of Canada will hold a general sitting at Victoria Courthouse next Monday at 10.30 a.m. and at Vancouver Courthouse on Wednesday.

The yellow signs, bearing a provincial crest, would say "Another Project Completed by CIDC," committee was told.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said granting the request would bring a "deluge" of similar signs on every future project completed in the city by the government of the day.

"I feel this thing is political," he said. "It's very similar to the 'Sorry for the inconvenience' signs put up by Highways Minister Gagliardi."

Deadline for registration on the city voters' list is 5 p.m. today at the City Clerk's office, not 5.30 p.m. as previously reported.

Reservation of $1,200 monthly from parking meter revenue to pay for 1,000 new meters over a five-year period was recommended to city council today.

Public works committee was informed the plan would result in replacement of all old manually-operated meters by automatic units requiring less maintenance.

Alan S. Paterson, 1298 Dallas, was fined $250 in Esquimalt police court Monday after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police evidence was that he drove on the wrong side of Lampson Street, failed to stop at an intersection and was "weaving" all over the road.

Member of a pioneer Victoria family, Edwin Lee, 1919 Lee Avenue, died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital which was built on the site where the old family farm was situated.

He was aged 80.

Born on the Lee farm in Victoria, he was a resident of Uclulet as a storekeeper for 30 years, retiring in 1941. He was well-known as a fur buyer in the sailing days.

Survivors include the widow, Bessie, one son, Edwin, of Uclulet and a daughter, Mrs. Vadim Stavrov, Victoria.

Funeral will be held from Sands' chapel Saturday at 1.30 p.m.

'Charging' Driver Fined After Double Collision

Police said a car driven by learner Belle F. J. West, 509 Simcoe, made two charges at another car on Hillside Avenue recently before it left the scene of the crash.

In city police court today the driver was fined $50 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and $25 for being a learner and driving while unaccompanied by an adult licence-holder.

After the first collision, court was told, the West car backed up and went ahead again to re-collide with the side of the other car.

FISH AREN'T SAFE THESE DAYS, even at 70 feet, with these young "frogmen" after them. Thirteen-year-old Hughie Pite, left, of 2570 Esplanade, and friend Bob Martin, 14, of 2367 Pacific, speared this dogfish in murky waters off Ogden Point breakwater on weekend. Bob, who has been diving four months, hit it first and Hughie, with only two months experience, finished it off. (Photo by William Boucher.)

OLD AND NEW in light standards are contrasted sharply by juxtaposition of a city cluster light and model of a new standard that may spring up in some city areas this year on experimental basis. Model held by Ald. Hugh Ramsay was designed by engineering department's architect Rodney Clack. Prototype of 32-foot standard shows adaptability as a combined street and traffic light installation. Design will be studied further in consultation with lighting department, City Engineer James Garnett told public works committee today.

Forgery Hearing Starts Wednesday

Second preliminary hearing into one of the Victoria area's biggest forgery cases was set to begin Wednesday afternoon when suspect Robert J. Wilson, of Vancouver, appeared in Saanich police court today.

Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said the hearing would not have as many witnesses as were heard during the first preliminary, after which William Black, also of Vancouver, was committed for trial.

If Wilson is committed, Mr. McKenzie pointed out, he and Black "in all probability will be tried jointly" in Assize court.

Wilson faces the identical charge as that laid against

Black—of attempting to deal with a forged document purporting to be a Government of Canada income tax refund cheque for $263.15 at the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal on July 24.

18 BANKS

Their arrests followed a whirlwind attack by two men on 18 Greater Victoria banks that day, in which nearly $5,000 worth of forged cheques were cashed.

Evidence at Black's hearing indicated a cheque ring of $500,000 proportions.

Mr. McKenzie said there would be 20 local witnesses called for the crown and perhaps a half dozen from Vancouver.

He said he hoped the Vancouver witnesses could be heard at a sitting Friday afternoon in order to try to complete the hearing before the Fall Assizes open next Tuesday.

Wilson is free on $5,000 bail.

Ex-Courtenay Girl Wins $100 Bursary

E. R. G. Richardson Memorial Bursary worth $100 has been awarded to Roberta Bennett, 1620 Earle.

Miss Bennett, 18-year-old student in the first year of the Victoria College education course, graduated this spring from Courtenay High School before her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. G. Bennett, moved here this month.

The award was granted for all-round ability and participation in school activities.

ASK The TIMES

Q. At what time did the religious community of Amiel de Valdes, self-styled "Brother XII," break up?—M.E.

A. In 1933. By this time Edward Arthur Wilson, former express company clerk in Victoria, had bilked his religious followers of many thousands of dollars. The sect was established on the De Courcy group of islands opposite Ladysmith, and had lasted approximately five years.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor, Question and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Quiet Service Unites Couple

A quiet ceremony was solemnized in St. Andrew's Cathedral recently, when Donna Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cocoroch of Revelstoke, became the bride of Cpl. Douglas Nicolson of the Provost Corps, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Work Point Barracks, and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nicolson of Vancouver.

Father E. Paradis conducted the morning service.

For her marriage, the bride chose a beige suit with white hat and accessories. Mrs. Maurice Rooker was her only attendant wearing a mustard-toned suit with brown accessories. Best man was M. Rooker.

A reception was held in the corporals' mess at Work Point Barracks following the wedding.

Cpl. Gordon Mitchell, president of the mess, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple are now spending their honeymoon in Belclara Park, Vancouver. When they return, they will make their home at 636 Admirals Road.

DEAR ABBY...

Living on Memories

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently buried my husband after twenty-three years of a happy marriage. All of a sudden his ex-wife appears on the scene dressed like a widow in mourning. She screamed and carried on at the funeral like he was still her husband and I had to go some to keep everybody from thinking she was taking it harder than me. As far as I know he was good and finished with her years before I met him. I hear she goes out to his grave every day in her widow's outfit and cries and prays. Can I have her locked up?

REAL WIDOW.

DEAR REAL: It must be obvious to everyone that this poor creature is sick. Let her live with her memories and pay no attention to her.

DEAR ABBY: We know a lady who is 79 years old, and last week she went on a two-week vacation trip with her boy friend who is also 79. Now this lady goes to our church every Sunday, but do you think it is all right for her to take off on a trip with a man and then brag to everybody about it. Her own daughter can't tell her anything. This lady is the first one to point out somebody else's flaws. What do you think we should do?

HER FRIENDS.

DEAR FRIENDS: This "lady" and her "boy friend" don't need their parents' consent to go on a trip together. Unconventional behaviour is "deductible"—from the reputation. There is nothing you can do.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEVER GET OVER IT" The Lord never gives us a bigger load than we can carry. If you have never prayed before, pray now.

Guardian Visits Local Bethel

Mrs. Sylvia Benedict, Supreme Guardian, International Order of Job's Daughters, recently made her official visit to Bethel No. 27, Victoria. Also on her official visit was the Grand Guardian of British Columbia, Mrs. Williamson of Trail, B.C., who was accompanied by Mr. Williamson, other members of the Grand Guardian Council and Mrs. R. McKenzie, past Grand Guardian of B.C. A dinner was held before the meeting in the Autumn Room on Fort Street, for visiting guests and members. Honored Queen, Miss Donna Campbell, presided at the meeting, using Mrs. Benedict's inscribed gavel.

- You receive many telephone calls at night.
- You entertain frequently.
- You receive a number of business calls at home.

Wedding Principals Motor To Okanagan and Cariboo

A motor trip to the Okanagan and the Cariboo followed the recent wedding of Ruth Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tyson, and Ian Ligertwood Riddell, son of Mrs. J. Riddell, all of Victoria.

Rev. C. Barner officiated at the candlelit service in Douglas Street Baptist Church, which was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums. Organist was G. Clarke.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin brocade fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a cascade of pink roses and heather. Her only jewelry was a necklace of pearls.

Attendants, Mrs. R. Allison, matron of honor, and Miss Joan Tyson, bridesmaid, were in similarly designed dresses of pink and blue nylon mesh, with headpieces to match. Both carried cascade bouquets of white daisies.

Bruce Davenport was best man and ushers were Ken Dunderdale and Don Tyson. Jack Greenwood proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Glenshiel Hotel, where a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table.

As the newlyweds left later on their honeymoon the bride wore a blue tweed suit with blue hat, navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and heather.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddell plan to make their home in Victoria at 1030 Terrace Avenue.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward of Madison, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. K. Mawle of Port Alberni, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Justice of New Westminster.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Tables Have Turned—Men Now Look Older

In the past when a husband and wife were the same age, the wife often looked much older than the husband from middle-age on. However, today the tables are turned and the man in the family may look like her father or older brother.

This is due to many factors. In the first place, the economic struggle to provide adequately for a family is much greater today than it was in the past. Also, families seem to expect more. They take for granted an electric washing machine, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator, and at least one car.

Also, women always have been more health-conscious than men, or perhaps what I really mean is figure-conscious. It works out the same. Along with woman's interest in calorie-counting, she acquired a knowledge of good nutrition.

When things became harder for father, they became easier for mother. Modern woman now has so very many household appliances which give her much more leisure time. She also knows many more tricks about hair-styling, make-up, figure-molding and individuality in dress.

If the modern man does not want this little woman to look like his daughter, he should heed the handwriting on the wall.

How a modern Telephone plan can help you

Today's pattern of family living calls for modern telephone planning. By that we mean careful selection of locations for your phones so that they provide the greatest possible convenience and efficiency. The points to consider are no different than in the location of other modern home equipment such as washer, dryer, TV set or lamps—you want to save time, save steps and increase comfort.

You can "telephone-plan" your home whether it is old, new or still on the drafting board; you can make your own plan, or call on us for advice.

1. KITCHEN PHONE:

The housewife spends 60% of her working day in the kitchen. Her kitchen phone saves hundreds of steps, cuts her working time by many minutes.

2. FRONT HALL PHONE:

Handy because of its central location. Easily accessible to the living room.

3. DEN, TV OR PLAYROOM PHONE:

Located right where the family spends the majority of its leisure time—and receives a large majority of its phone calls. Ends numerous trips up and down stairs.

4. MASTER BEDROOM PHONE:

So convenient when you're working in the bedroom area. Adds the security of being able to summon help in a night-time emergency.

5. BASEMENT PHONE:

Permits telephoning without leaving important family tasks, such as laundry and ironing. Also saves stair-climbing.

Let's look back five years. Think of some of the changes which have taken place during that short period. How have they affected your affairs? Court judgments in tax matters, the value of the dollar, the ages of your dependents — are all significant to you.

What about the next five years? Changes will continue. New and perhaps unforeseen circumstances will arise. You cannot predict them but, to some extent, you can anticipate them.

During the past five years it has been our privilege to plan and administer estates both large and small. Because of our experience and the particular talents of our trust officers, we can help you to plan for the future and can keep you abreast of changes as they affect your estate.

Prominent Decorator Dies In City

A woman whose artistic touch graces many of Victoria's homes died at Royal Jubilee Hospital Monday.

Miss Doris C. Holmes, 66, of 863 Somenos, was a prominent interior decorator in Victoria for more than 30 years. She retired in 1954.

Her career began with a one-year course in decorating in New York. At about the same time, the old Spencer's store had opened a studio, and when Miss Holmes returned to Victoria, she became assistant to the decorator.

Later she assumed charge of the department, and continued as its head when Spencer's became the T. Eaton Company. In retirement, she had been

VOYAGERS SEEN FROM HOTEL; FIVE RESCUED

Five youths in their early teens can count themselves lucky thanks to an unidentified person in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel with sharp eyes. They were spotted at noon Sunday, on a makeshift raft near the strong current in the channel about a half-mile from the Oak Bay boathouse.

William Faith, proprietor of the boathouse, was contacted and he in turn telephoned police. They went out in a launch and towed the boys to shore.

"They had some sort of a sheet, or blanket, as a sail. It was certainly dangerous for them, and I suppose they did not realize this."

A Labrador dog was among the rescued "crew."

Ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 26-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Richard Matthew, age 11, of Vancouver, B.C., for his question:

What exactly is fool's gold?

In ancient days they had a mineral called fool's gold, which a prospector can tell real fool's gold from. Pyrite is a plentiful mineral and occurs in rocks of all sorts. It occurs in papery layers throughout slates, shales and even coal. Lumps of it occur in fire-formed rocks and flakes occur in beds of quartz. Though basically pyrite is a compound of iron and sulphur, it usually contains other minerals. A compound of copper and iron pyrite is chalcopyrite, a valuable copper ore. It is somewhat more yellowish in color than iron pyrite and tends to tarnish with rainbow colors. Pyrite is also found in combination with nickel, cobalt, lead, zinc, arsenic and gold. Real gold is very often present in rocks that show pyrite. It may occur in invisible particles, but sometimes there is enough of it to make it worth while to mine fool's gold for its real gold content.

The world mines almost five million tons of iron pyrite every year. There must be a reason for all this hard work—and so there is. Pyrite is mined for its valuable sulphur content. Most of it is processed to make sulphuric acid.

Sulphuric acid is refused. The sulphuric acid used in rayon manufacture may be salvaged and used as soil fertilizer.

Sulphuric acid plays a role in the manufacture of thousands of common items. It is used in the refining of petroleum, in certain steels, in dyes and certain textiles.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Linda Waldrop, age 11, of Winston, Ga., for her question:

What formed the Great Salt Lake?

The Great Salt Lake covers about 2,000 square miles. But is a mere puddle left from great Lake Bonneville. Thousands of years ago, an area in this region covering 20,000 square miles was deep under the fresh waters of old Lake Bonneville. This lake water was fresh because it was able to drain into the sea. It was fed by waters from the Rockies to the east and the High Sierra to the west. It drained into the Snake River which drained into the mighty Columbia River and the Columbia River toed these waters to the Pacific Ocean.

At some time in the past, the big lake's outlet to the sea, the Snake River became blocked. The lake water began to evaporate, leaving its salts behind. The water became more and more salty with the years. What's more, less water drained into the lake and it began to shrink. The lake that remained was Great Salt Lake, fed by streams, rivers and a few lakes but having no outlet to the sea. These waters bring in more and more salts and minerals dissolved from the mountain slopes. The sun evaporates water vapor from the lake, leaving the salts behind. So, like the seas, the Great Salt Lake is getting saltier all the time.

Important, Unknown Role

We do not meet sulphuric acid in everyday life. Its work is done behind the scenes. Millions of tons of it are produced for industry every year. Even so, some of this vast

Bid to Bribe Mayor For Gas Deal Charged

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Arthur Mason Monday was charged with attempted bribery of the mayor of Kingston and the public utilities commissioner in connection with the natural gas distribution franchise for this city.

Mason, who unsuccessfully ran for the mayoralty here in 1954, appeared in magistrate's court and was remanded to Oct. 6.

Oak L. Jones, general manager of Consumers' Gas Company Ltd., Toronto, told reporters Mr. Mason was engaged by Consumers' in April, 1957, to represent the company in Kingston.

The bribe attempt is alleged to have occurred on or about March 7 last year.

Meanwhile, the Kingston Labor Council has asked Premier Frost of Ontario to appoint a royal commission to investigate Kingston's natural gas situation. The labor council met in emergency session Sunday night.

'Only Way Out of It'

Albert Kerr twice threatened to jump off a North Pender Island dock to end the pressure of debt, a witness said Monday at Victoria RCMP court. The man spoke as the next-to-last Crown witness on the fourth day of a preliminary hearing into a charge of murder faced by the dead man's widow, Mrs. Alice Louella Kerr, 54.

Fifty-six-year-old Kerr, a North Pender Island electrician, is alleged to have been shot Aug. 10 at his Hope Bay home and was discovered by passing neighbors who were flagged down by Mrs. Kerr the morning of Aug. 11.

A retired mariner, James Newman, 79, of Port Washington, told the hearing Kerr had come to his house about eight times in the two years Newman knew him.

He had last seen Kerr and his wife together about eight months ago, he said.

"ONLY WAY OUT" On two separate occasions, Newman said, Kerr threatened suicide.

"He told me he was going to jump off the dock; he was so far in debt, that was the only way out of it," the witness told the hearing.

Earlier Crown witnesses told the preliminary hearing of threats by Kerr to shoot himself, and of debts amounting to more than $2,000.

At that time Kerr had said he thought there was going to be a depression, and that although Kerr was sober he seemed like a man without his "bearings" or "in a stupor," Newman told the hearing.

On one occasion when Newman saw Kerr with his wife they had come to Newman's house, he said.

Mr. Kerr had dozed off on a sofa and Mrs. Kerr "smacked" her husband in the stomach with a three-celled flashlight.

The stocky, German-born animal expert began making plans for the future following his acquittal two days ago by an Assize Court jury on a criminal negligence charge.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or irritants of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

NEW SOVIET A-BLAST END OF SUSPENSION?

TOKYO (Wednesday) (AP) — The Tokyo meteorological station has detected what it believes is a Soviet nuclear explosion. This would be the first since March 21, when Russia announced it was suspending tests.

A meteorological station spokesman said abnormal atmospheric pressures were felt throughout Japan about 10 p.m. Tuesday. These indicated an explosion in the megaton 1,000,000 tons of TNT class, he said.

The waves came from north-northwest of Japan but the exact location of origin could not be fixed.

Ike, Dulles Open Door On Formosa

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held the door open today for a peaceful settlement of the Formosa crisis that might include withdrawal of large Nationalist Chinese forces from the offshore islands.

Both ruled out "appeasement" and any retreat under fire. But they emphasized a willingness to consider any suggestions for easing tensions in the powderkeg area.

Eisenhower made it clear in accepting the credentials of Chinese Nationalist ambassador George Yeh that the United States was not going to take a hard-headed attitude which would exclude a peaceful settlement with Red China.

He also called on Nationalist China to help avert war by considering suggestions for a peaceful settlement.

WITHDRAWAL POSSIBLE

Meanwhile, Dulles indicated that the U.S. would urge the withdrawal of large Nationalist forces from Quemoy and Matsu if a dependable cease-fire arrangement could be worked out with the Communists.

Nationalists Wait Chance In Red 'Revolt'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nationalist China said today it would defend "every inch" of its territory but would await a revolt against the Chinese Communists before invading the mainland.

"We are realists," Chinese Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsiang told the United Nations General Assembly.

"We love peace as much as anybody else. We have our fund of common sense."

"It is not our thought that the 10 million people on Taiwan (Formosa) should be pitted against the 500 or 600 million on the mainland. We have no reason to fight against our brethren on the mainland."

"However, when our people on the mainland rise in revolt as the Hungarian people did two years ago and call for our help, we shall fight side by side with them for their freedom."

"This is our program of recovery of the mainland, no more and no less."

FISH STORIES OF 1958

Pearson's $5 Fish Beats John D's at Ten Grand

A 25-pound spring salmon was presented to Lester Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, Monday night by Bob Clifton, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia.

Said Mr. Clifton: "I see that a 24-pound fish caught by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the Yukon cost $10,000. This fish cost $5. B.C. fish are bigger and better."

His reference was to a fish-

Dulles told a news conference in reply to a question that there might be an important change in U.S. policy if the Communists were willing to "give" on some of the issues.

He said U.S. policy was "flexible and adaptable" to the situation the nation was required to meet.

POLICY CRITICIZED

Dulles said the U.S. did not feel that it was sound policy in the first place for Chiang Kai-shek to make a major commitment of forces to the off-shore island. However, he said, the Nationalists had strong views on the subject and the U.S. acquiesced. Chiang is reported to have 100,000 men on the off-shore islands, of which 85,000 are said to be on Quemoy.

Dulles also said he would be willing to meet with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai if there were reason to think it would help settle the Formosa crisis. But he doubted the wisdom of such a meeting at this time.

He said he saw improvement in the Formosa situation over the past two weeks and believed there was less likelihood of war.

U.S. Missiles Spark Warning Of Reprisals

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press said today that Nationalist Chinese use of American "Sidewinder" air-to-air missiles was an "exceptionally grave" matter that would bring "counter-blows."

A Tass News Agency report from Peking distributed today reported the Nationalists had made 142 sorties in American-supplied planes using the deadly missiles for the first time in action.

A Peking broadcast of a defence ministry statement said that one of its planes was shot down by a Sidewinder launched from a Nationalist plane during an air battle on Sept. 24. It said parts of the missile were found.

Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai attacked the U.S. over the reported use of Sidewinders.

For this, Chou declared, "The Chinese people are determined to deal punitive blows on the Chiang Kai-shek clique for crimes committed under the instigation of the United States."

Spectacular Fire Destroys Well-Known Malahat Resort

$70,000 Loss Partly Insured

By MONTE ROBERTS

A roaring, $70,000 fire totally destroyed the Malahat Chalet in just over an hour this morning.

The cedar building, one of the best-known Vancouver Island landmarks, was burned to the ground, with only a stone chimney left standing.

Langford forest rangers and volunteer firemen, and Colwood RCMP arrived on the scene to find the building practically gone.

The Chalet, which opened at 12 noon each day, was empty when the fire started.

Co-owners Marshall Smith and "Buzz" Burns were in the near-by Hitching Post coffee bar just before 10 a.m. when the waitress noticed smoke at the back of the chalet.

"At first we thought someone was burning rubbish," Mr. Smith said. "Then we realized the smoke was coming out of the back of the building itself."

PHONE OUT

Another witness said the telephone was out of order. A passing motorist was sent on to Langford to notify the fire department.

Meanwhile, the Langford forest rangers saw the smoke and sent a new, 2,000-gallon tank truck to the scene.

Said Mr. Smith: "It arrived between 10:30 and 11. By that time, there was nothing left of the inside of the buildings. The walls collapsed shortly after."

At 11:30 a.m., only a few smouldering floor beams remained to show where the chalet stood.

TOTEMS INTACT

The famed totem poles outside the chalet did not burn. But the wooden statue of Chief Malahat which guarded the doorway was totally destroyed.

The well-known stone wishing well also remains.

Mr. Smith placed the value of the building at $40,000, covered by insurance. Not covered were $15,000 worth of stock, mainly souvenirs, and $12,000 worth of fixtures and furniture.

IN KITCHEN

Mr. Smith said he had no idea how the fire started, or exactly where, but it appeared to be in the back of the building, possibly in the kitchen area.

Mr. Smith and his partner bought the Chalet in April, 1957, from Mr. and Mrs. Vance Angus and their son, Doug, who operated it for almost 10 years.

The new owners spent about $20,000 on enlarging and renovating facilities.

The Chalet, with its unmatched view of Finlayson Arm, was a favorite stopping place for tourists from all over the world, and also a dining favorite with residents from Victoria and up-island.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Burns today said they would start rebuilding immediately.

ALL GONE IN ONE HOUR

Taken only minutes after Malahat Chalet fire was first spotted shortly before 10 a.m. today, photo

shows how quickly flames raced through building. Less than hour later, destruction was complete.

Douk Move Washout Looms As Paper Deadline Passes

A last-minute washout of plans for the mass exodus of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors from B.C. to Russia appeared possible today.

After a meeting with a Doukhobor committee, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he has now withdrawn his recommendation for extension of today's deadline for filing of migration forms by members of the sect — and few have responded.

Justice Minister Davie Fulton told a Sons of Freedom delegation in Ottawa today the federal government might grant a three-week extension — if Attorney-General Robert Bonner agreed.

The B.C. government had earlier recommended a 30-day extension for anyone having a legitimate reason for delay. But Mr. Bonner indicated Monday a majority of Doukhobors are withholding their decision. His statement suggested the B.C. government is losing patience.

Mr. Moojelsky said there was not enough time to get all 3,000 members of the Sons of Freedom signed up.

He said the forms, which include agreement to renounce Canadian citizenship, are lengthy and each signing must be formally witnessed.

About 50 per cent of the Freedomites had signed and another 30 days should be time enough for the rest.

However it was reported that the government agent at Nelson had received only 40 forms.

The B.C. government and Ottawa justice department have agreed to assist in payment of passage and settlement costs for those Doukhobors wishing to leave Canada, provided they give up Canadian citizenship rights. Cost to the two governments is expected to exceed $2,000,000 if, as earlier indicated, 3,000 sect members depart.

Here is text of the attorney-general's statement: "The government was disappointed to learn that contrary to statements made on the 3rd Sep. Continued on Page 2

NEW SIGNS TO WARN LITTERBUGS

Public works committee today recommended erection of signs at downtown trash cans warning litterbugs that messing up city streets can result in a fine of up to $100.

The recommendation was sent to council, along with a request to the city police commission that the anti-litter provision in the streets and traffic bylaw be enforced, following a recent campaign by civic leaders and The Victoria Times for cleaner streets.

City Engineer James C. Bennett said the 136 trash cans located on city streets were adequate to solve the problem if only people would use them.

Bennett Threatens To Sue Paper

(Times Staff Reporter) NORTH VANCOUVER — Threat of a $1,000,000 law suit against the Vancouver Province was issued this morning by Premier Bennett.

Story on government debt manipulation.

The premier was white with anger over the story which appeared early today.

The premier told reporters "I have demanded a full apology from Mr. A. W. Moscarella (Province Publisher). I have never seen anything so completely false. Unless there is a complete retraction, withdrawal and denial, I shall sue for $1,000,000."

An inquest has been set for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Port Alberni.

Varro, a Hungarian immigrant and CPR employee, was driver of a car that went out of control on a curve and smashed into a rock bluff.

His companion, A. T. Carvello, suffered only minor injuries.

NORTH VANCOUVER — Three separate Pacific Great Eastern trains rolled out of North Vancouver today headed for Social Credit "victory" celebrations at Fort St. John and Dawson Creek.

$10,000 Course Steered by Navy

The navy expects to have $10,000 for the Community Chest when the last dollar is extracted from bell-bottomed pants pockets later today.

This would be a record and just about half as much again as the tars and civilians working with them chipped in last year.

STRAIGHT COURSE

Commander M. E. Doyle, the Chest's agent at Naden, said today the navy campaign which began Sept. 12 and ends tonight "steered just about as straight a course as we could have hoped for."

"There has been such a good spirit among the 7,300 navy men and civilians that if we don't have the full $10,000 we aimed for—and I'll be surprised if it falls short—we'll come awfully close to it."

The total will consist both of cash and money pledged through banks.

Meanwhile, $51,000 has piled up in the form of advance gifts. Pledges for another $6,500 from employees of T. Eaton Co. will be handed Chest officials at a ceremony on the store's main floor Wednesday.

a VIP guest. It's history goes back over 40 years.

In 1918, the uncompleted railway went bankrupt and was taken over by the B.C. government. It was opened to traffic between Squamish and Quesnel in 1921. In 1952 it was extended to Prince George and in 1956 the southern extension reached North Vancouver.

The project has been the biggest railway construction job in North America for many years. All engines are diesel powered. It is the first railroad in Canada to use microwave transmission for its communication system. All of which leads the railway to consider itself one of the most modern in the world.

The northern extension opens some of B.C.'s richest resources to development—the wealth of the Rocky Mountain Trench, which is now being surveyed by Swedish industrialist, Axel Wenner-Gren. And it links to coastal and trans-ocean shipping routes the established wheat wealth of the Peace River Basin.

General manager J. S. Broadbent says the completion of the northern extension will launch the PGE into its most active period.

Atom Weapons Asked by Army

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army wants atomic weapons and guided missiles.

Maj.-Gen. Jean Allard, vice-chief of the army general staff, said Monday night this request has gone to the Canadian government.

Tactical atomic weapons and guided missiles would have to be obtained from the United States. The Canadian Press quoted Gen. Allard Monday night as saying they already had been requested from the U.S. but the general phoned The CP afterwards to change this.

WRONG IMPRESSION

He said what he had said or meant to say was that the army has informed the Canadian government it needs and wants such weapons.

Procurement of atomic warheads or guided missiles was a matter of government policy and not one for the army, he said.

The army plans to get the U.S. Lacrosse surface guided missile and the U.S. Hawk surface-to-air missile or a weapon similar to it.

The Lacrosse, on which Canadian soldiers already are training, would be used as artillery. The Hawk would be employed to shoot down enemy reconnaissance aircraft or manned bombers attacking an army field force.

Gen. Allard said the army has presented a three-year budget to the government involving a "small increase" over current expenditures. The army anticipates the government will meet its request, he said.

Last week, Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, in a speech at Boston, Mass., urged that the U.S. Congress give Canada atomic weapons for joint defence.

U.S. SHOULD BE MADE TO UNDERSTAND

Canada Has No Obligation In Formosa Crisis—Pearson

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The United States should be made to understand that Canada cannot be committed to any action Americans may take in the Formosa crisis, Liberal leader Lester Pearson said here Monday night.

He said the Americans must be told Canada is under no obligation except as a member of the United Nations Assembly.

"We should be able to settle this matter by statesmanlike diplomacy and patience, Mr. Pearson said.

500 LIBERALS

The Nobel Peace Prize winner was addressing a meeting of 500 Liberals from all parts of Vancouver Island at Holyrood House.

Quietly and earnestly—without rhetoric—the Liberal leader said:

"It would be a tragic folly if the situation over these two islands were allowed to deteriorate into a major armed conflict.

"We must pray tonight that the resources of diplomacy will be brought to bear on this problem, and perhaps through the United Nations some solution can be reached whereby Formosa can be separated from Communist China."

Turning to domestic affairs, Mr. Pearson warned against the dangers of state control.

"Every time we ask something of the state; every time we ask the city to intervene in our lives, we increase the power of the state. It is futile to talk of more freedom when we ask the state to do more and more."

HARD TASK

"Somehow we have to combine freedom and security, and the reconciliation of these two things is the most difficult task facing us today."

On a one-day visit to Victoria, Mr. Pearson said the purpose of his nation-wide tour was two fold:

1. To make a report to his fellow Liberals in Ottawa.
2. To make a journey of exploration enabling him to get the opinions of people throughout the country.

"At no time in our history have we been confronted with more serious problems on the domestic and international front than today."

"To be successful in such times a political party must have members devoted to the ideals of the party, policies based on principles which command the loyalty and support of its members, and a strong organization in which these policies can be realized in practical political action.

"For the organization of a party to be successful it must have its root deep in the constituencies.

"If we examine the causes of our defeat in the last two general elections, and learn from them, we shall be able to re-group our strength, re-establish our position and face the future with confidence that we shall again be called on to lead Canada in its growth and development."

"Our party must keep close to the people and must continue in the future, as it has in the past, a progressive party—a party of youth, enterprise and vigor."

"We have in the past been a party of principles and ideals. People expect us to have something worth fighting for and they look to us for change and reform. But reform without principles can lead to undesirable results."

NEW WAYS

"We must find new ways of adapting our Liberal principles to the problems of today. As long as we are true to Liberalism, we will believe that the individual comes before the state. But one of the great dangers to our modern society are the demands that are now being made by the individual on the state."

Budget Boasts By Bennett To Backfire?

British Columbia's policy of asking federal assistance on the one hand, and proclaiming the excellent financial health of the province on the other, was questioned by Liberal leader Leslie B. Pearson Monday.

Mr. Pearson visited Victoria in the course of a nation-wide organizational tour.

Asked whether he felt Ottawa would accede to the B.C. government's request for $2,000,000 toward this year's fire-fighting costs, or whether he supported a B.C. proposal for federal railway subsidies to reduce need for freight rate increases, Mr. Pearson said:

"The federal government should intervene only when a disaster is beyond the financial powers of the provincial government."

Otherwise, he said, the federal government might ask additional controls of matters now in provincial jurisdiction, in return.

"I've been reading a pamphlet put out by the party in government here claiming this is the most prosperous province in Canada . . . and soon will be debt free."

"I expect the federal government will consider this carefully, in view of the requests for federal aid," smiled Mr. Pearson.

'Liquor, Speed Mixed Thoroughly'—Coroner

Hours of Drinking Before Fatal Crash

A vibrant warning against mixing "liquor and speed" was made today by coroner Dr. E. C. Hart at the inquest into the death Friday of Donald George Campbell, 32, of 35 Obed Avenue.

Verdict was that death was "accidental." "Liquor and speed were thoroughly mixed in this case," he said.

It was "sordid." He added: "You can't indict a man who is dead."

Campbell was killed and four persons injured shortly before 10 p.m. Friday in a collision between the car he was driving and a car driven by Mrs. Isabelle Collins, Scott Road, at the junction of Lockside and Patricia Bay Highway.

His chest was crushed. Noreen, 13, daughter of Mrs. Collins, suffered a broken nose.

Mrs. Gloria Hunt, 28, 35 Obed, a rear-seat passenger in the U-drive death car, testified to hours of off-and-on drinking prior to the fatal accident, including herself and the driver. The other car passengers were Mrs. Jean Currie, 29, of 35 Obed, and Gordon Alan Provins, RCN.

Mrs. Hunt suffered facial cuts and bruises; Provins suffered facial lacerations and had a tooth knocked out.

They had consumed beer in the Douglas Hotel, then had gone to the Naval Veterans club-rooms and had more beer; then picked up a case of beer and a "mickey" of rum before heading for Sidney.

Woman Poured Liquor Out Window

The rum was consumed with "coke" by the men when the car was parked "by the water," she said.

"I made out I was taking some but poured it out the window."

Mrs. Hunt said the party continued at the Naval Vets club in Sidney to about 8.30 p.m. "What was Mr. Campbell's condition?" asked Cpl. W. J. Stanton, RCMP officer who investigated the tragedy.

"He said he was quite tired." "Was he under the influence of liquor?"

"Yes." Mrs. Hunt said the dead man had been drinking "before we met him at the Douglas."

He had been playing the piano at the Naval Vets here and in Sidney. "He was a good piano player."

First person on the accident scene was Robert Courtney, Bazar Bay. He said a car had passed him on the highway travelling at a "terrific speed—75 to 80."

"We got around a corner and there was the accident. They hit head on. A case of beer was embedded in the front seat. He (Campbell) was alive when we got him out."

The driver was dead when examined by Dr. C. H. Hemmings about 15 minutes after the crash.

Two Injured In Truck, Car Accidents

Two people were given hospital treatment after car and truck crashes in the city Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, 77, of 3760 Carey, was admitted at Jubilee Hospital with a head injury and possible rib fracture after a car driven by William J. Reynolds, of the same address, was in collision with a car driven by Ivan Jugovic, 2522 Empire, at 4.30 p.m.

Carson Fairclough, 300 Catherine, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a forehead cut and possible neck injury after the collision of trucks driven by Kenneth R. Suddaby, 1250 Union, and Thomas M. Chorney, 848 Old Esquimalt, at Government and Queens.

Advance Budget Asked for City Works Projects

Procedural change in setting up annual budget expenditures to enable public works maintenance programs to get off to an early start was recommended by the city council today.

City Engineer James Garnett strongly favored allocation of 50 per cent of a previous year's public works budget in advance of the regular budget, normally set in April or May.

The idea originally was advanced to council by Ald. A. I. Curtis.

Mr. Garnett said the proposed system would enable his department to eliminate present waste of good construction weather in spring when programs are held up pending the budget vote.

He said the new system would improve efficiency and planning without loosening control over expenditures by council.

Under the present system, the late budget forces the whole year's construction program into a four or five-month season.

"This year, for instance, we are way behind on our program," he said.

Holiday's Homes Struck by Burglars

Homes of vacationing Oak Bay residents have become targets of burglars during the past few weeks.

Second break-in reported in Oak Bay since Sunday was discovered when occupants returned from a lengthy holiday about 4.30 p.m. Monday.

An unspecified quantity of household effects and personal property was stolen from the home of T. H. Irvine, 3295 Ripon, police said.

The Irvines entered their home to find it ransacked and burglarized by means of a smashed window which had first been taped to prevent glass from shattering.

At about the same time, on Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. W. Elkington, 572 Island, came home from a seven-week European trip, found their key would not open the rear door, broke a window and discovered a wrecking bar inside.

Upstairs there were signs of burglary and it was first believed about $1,400 worth of furs, silverware, a pistol, radio and other items were stolen.

THIEF FLED

Going back downstairs the Elkingtons found the front door had been opened as though the thief departed while they were upstairs.

Later the furs were located in the house as were most of the other items, apparently gathered together by the burglar.

Earlier in the month, three house entries in which an estimated $1,500 in jewels and other items were stolen, was reported to Oak Bay police.

Ex-Courtenay Girl Wins $100 Bursary

E. R. G. Richardson Memorial Bursary worth $100 has been awarded to Roberta Bennett, 1620 Earle.

Miss Bennett, 18-year-old student in the first year of the Victoria College education course, graduated this spring from Courtenay High School before her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. G. Bennett, moved here this month.

The award was granted for all-round ability and participation in school activities.

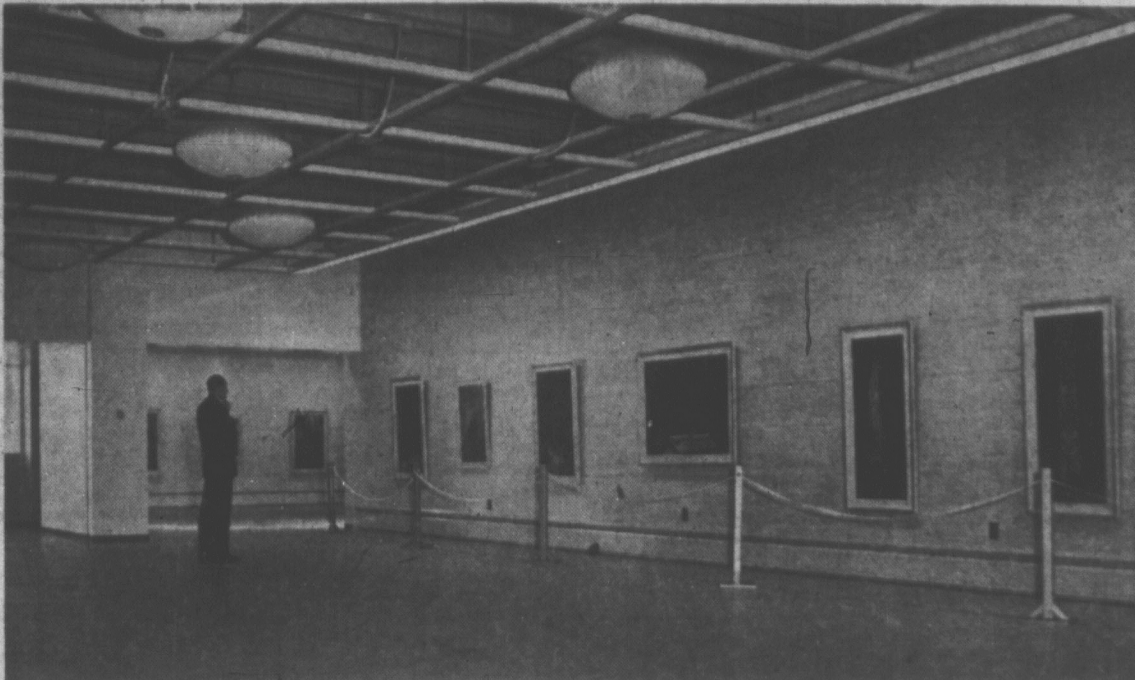

ASK The TIMES

Q. At what time did the religious community of Amiel de Valdes, self-styled "Brother XII," break up?—M.E.

A. In 1933. By this time Edward Arthur Wilson, former express company clerk in Victoria, had bilked his religious followers of many thousands of dollars. The sect was established on the De Courcy group of islands opposite Ladysmith, and had lasted approximately five years.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Victoria and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or local problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

STERN YET BEAUTIFUL SIMPLICITY of new Centennial Art Gallery wing interior sets off 40 paintings now on display there from brush of famed Victoria artist Emily Carr, whose collection of some 150 paintings were bequeathed in trust to people of B.C. It is first large show here in gallery of Miss Carr's work which has won international, continuing acclaim. All her pictures eventually will be shown here.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

I feel sure our genial publicity commissioner, George I. Warren, will agree with Liberal leader Lester Pearson when he said that during the recent ferry strikes the whole of Canada was isolated from Vancouver Island!

A grimly humorous story of atomic annihilation is told by Gerald R. Coghlin, MBE, veteran Reuter correspondent, now staying at the Empress Hotel.

In 1988, says Mr. Coghlin, peering into his time machine, an atomic explosion in the South Pacific destroyed every living thing on earth except one small monkey.

Lonely and hungry, the monkey wandered the Pacific looking for food and companionship and one day, to his surprise, he encountered a small female monkey.

"I'm so hungry," he told her. "I don't know what to do."

"Don't worry," she said. "I've got a nice big apple for you."

"Oh, no!" cried the male monkey. "don't start that all over again..."

Some people I know left their clocks on Daylight Time

Sunday just for the pleasure of going to church at noon.

Others kept them that way till Monday morning for the satisfaction of going to work one hour late!

In town this weekend, Sir Evelyn Wrench, CMG, founder of the English Speaking Union, told of his lifelong ambition—to get rid of his Oxford accent.

"But it's no use," he sighed. "I overheard a couple of American page boys discussing me and one said: 'He's a mighty nice guy but I don't understand a word he says.'"

Hume Sweet Hume!

The Earl of Home (pronounced Hume), now gracing the Empress Hotel, is the holder of a peerage created in Scotland in 1473 and is the 14th Earl of Home.

Recalling his student days at Oxford, he tells how the Master of Balliol encountered a Church of England bishop in the dark quadrangle after a college celebration.

Both were unsteady on their feet but the Master was determined to say the right thing.

"Good morning, my lord bishop," he said, "I trust it is only your boots that are tight."

Widow To Stand Trial

Mrs. Alice Louella Kerr, charged with the death of her 56-year-old husband Aug. 10 at their Pender Island home, was committed for trial today following a five-day preliminary hearing in Victoria RCMP court.

She will appear at the fall Assizes which start here next week.

An application for dismissal by defence counsel Alan Macfarlane was rejected by Magistrate A. I. Thomas who said: "I do not think it is the duty of this court, although empowered to do so, but a matter for a higher court to decide."

Mrs. Kerr had nothing to say. In Mr. Macfarlane's application for dismissal, he said "she should not be put through the tortures of a trial when the evidence of the preliminary hearing is what we have here."

"I can't think of any evidence in this case which is consistent with murder," he said, pointing at three witnesses who had said Albert Kerr, the deceased, had told them he was going to kill himself.

Reasonable Doubt

He pointed out that the Crown had to prove beyond a reasonable doubt, and claimed that in this case the Crown hadn't even a prima facie case.

Explaining that it was an unusual case, he asked the magistrate to consider whether or not there was sufficient evidence to induce the belief "in the mind of a cautious man" that the accused was guilty.

There was almost more evidence to show suicide, he stated. Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie admitted there were threats of self-destruction in the evidence, but also that on four occasions the accused had threatened the deceased.

He said evidence was inconsistent with any other reasonable conclusion than murder.

Final crown witness was Dennis Patrick Burns, Port Washington, a caretaker, who had known Albert Kerr three years.

Kerr had spoken of suicide in his presence, he said, "about a month before his death."

"He said he was going to shoot himself."

He recalled the dead man as "a big overgrown boy" despite his 56 years.

After the shooting, he said he told a neighbor "so Bert finally did it."

SECOND SUMMER WARMS VICTORIA

September bowed out today on a gracious note of Indian summer, with bright sunshine, temperatures in the high sixties, and a forecast for more of the same to start October.

Incomplete figures for the month showed it to be a "normal" summer for Victoria—where "normal" is spelled "LO-VELY."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

City public works committee today recommended changing the name of Metchosin Street to Lawndale Avenue to eliminate confusion in mail deliveries to Metchosin Road, an off-shoot of the Sooke Highway.

Two Victoria army officers, members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, today are en route to Beirut, Lebanon, as members of the UN observer group.

Major R. J. Kerfoot, 222 Anson, "C" company commander, left Monday night and Capt. Arthur Gale, 951 Clent, acting adjutant, left today.

They will be in Lebanon one year. Their families are staying here.

Old Fur Buyer Edwin Lee Dies in City

Member of a pioneer Victoria family, Edwin Lee, 1919 Lee Avenue, died today in Royal Jubilee Hospital which was built on the site where the old family farm was situated.

He was aged 80. Born on the Lee farm in Victoria, he was a resident of the city for many years.

Survivors include the widow, Bessie, one son, Edwin, of Ucluelet and a daughter, Mrs. Vadim Stavrakov, Victoria.

Funeral will be held from Sands' chapel Saturday at 1.30 p.m.

City public works committee today rejected a Capital Improvement District Commission request for permission to erect permanent signs at all projects it completes in the city.

The yellow signs, bearing a provincial crest, would say "Another Project Completed by CIDC," committee was told.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said granting the request would bring a "deluge" of similar signs on every future project completed in the city by the government of the day.

"I feel this thing is political," he said. "It's very similar to the 'Sorry for the inconvenience' signs put up by Highways Minister Gagliardi."

Deadline for registration on the city voters' list is 5 p.m. today at the City Clerk's office, not 5.30 p.m. as previously reported.

Reservation of $1,200 monthly from parking meter revenue to pay for 1,000 new meters over a five-year period was recommended to city council today.

Public works committee was informed the plan would result in replacement of all old manually-operated meters by automatic units requiring less maintenance.

Alan S. Paterson, 1298 Dallas, was fined $250 in Esquimalt police court Monday after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police evidence was that he drove on the wrong side of Lampson Street, failed to stop at an intersection and was "weaving" all over the road.

The small boat operator who forgot his outboard motor at Kinver Beach launching ramp Sunday afternoon can claim it from Esquimalt police on proof of ownership.

Police said the motor was found about 5 p.m.

Minimum requirements for the installation of fluorescent fixtures will be the subject of an address by M. F. Schwartz, Victoria's electrical inspector, to the season's first meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building, tonight at 8.

The Exchequer Court of Canada will hold a general sitting at Victoria Courthouse next Monday at 10.30 a.m. and at Vancouver Courthouse on Wednesday.

JUST LEARNING HOW

'Charging' Driver Fined After Double Collision

Police said a car driven by learner Belle F. J. West, 509 Simcoe, made two charges at another car on Hillside Avenue recently before it left the scene of the crash.

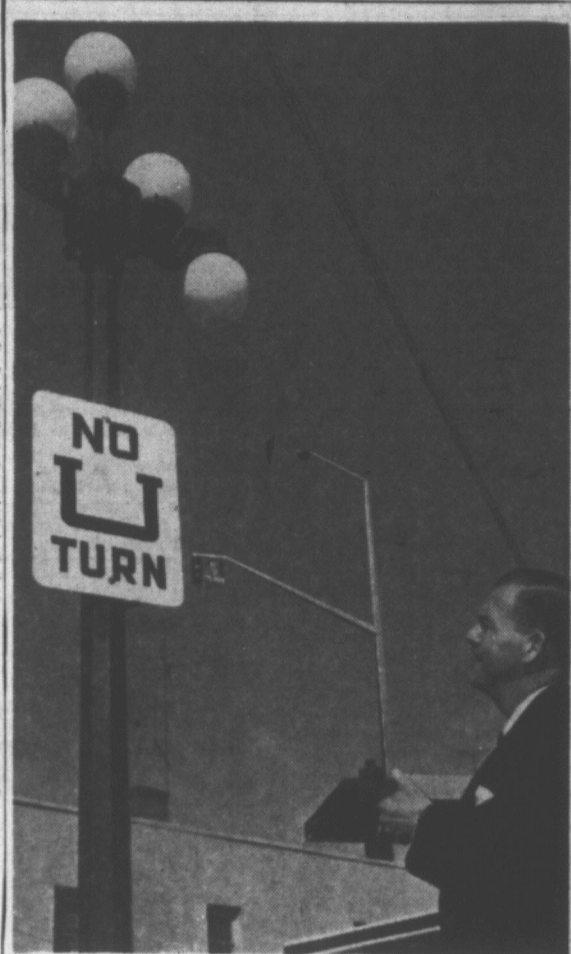

In city police court today the driver was fined $50 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and $25 for being a learner and driving while unaccompanied by an adult licence-holder.

After the first collision, court was told, the West car backed up and went ahead again to re-collide with the side of the other car.

OLD AND NEW in light standards are contrasted sharply by juxtaposition of a city cluster light and model of a new standard that may spring up in some city areas this year on experimental basis. Model held by Ald. Hugh Ramsay was designed by engineering department's architect Rodney Clack. Prototype of 32-foot standard shows adaptability as a combined street and traffic light installation. Design will be studied further in consultation with lighting department, City Engineer James Garnett told public works committee today.

Forgery Hearing Starts Wednesday

Second preliminary hearing into one of the Victoria area's biggest forgery cases was set to begin Wednesday afternoon when suspect Robert J. Wilson, of Vancouver, appeared in Saanich police court today.

Prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie said the hearing would not have as many witnesses as were heard during the first preliminary, after which William Black, also of Vancouver, was committed for trial.

If Wilson is committed, Mr. McKenzie pointed out, he and Black "in all probability will be tried jointly" in Assize court.

Wilson faces the identical charge as that laid against

Black—of attempting to deal with a forged document purporting to be a Government of Canada income tax refund cheque for $263.15 at the Saanich branch of the Bank of Montreal on July 24.

18 BANKS

Their arrests followed a whirlwind attack by two men on 18 Greater Victoria banks that day, in which nearly $5,000 worth of forged cheques were cashed.

Evidence at Black's hearing indicated a cheque ring of $500,000 proportions.

Mr. McKenzie said there would be 20 local witnesses called for the crown and perhaps a half dozen from Vancouver.

He said he hoped the Vancouver witnesses could be heard at a sitting Friday afternoon in order to try to complete the hearing before the Fall Assizes open next Tuesday.

Wilson is free on $5,000 bail.

Do you find it hard, at a tea or coffee party, to balance a cup and saucer and a plate, successfully? Combination cups and plates should solve the problem admirably, especially as they're selling in such a bright variety of colors and designs. The sets are also tops for snacks around the television set... so buy some at the reasonable price of $1.95 and up.

Why weep over the onions when there is a simple container with rotary blades that will prevent those big, wet tears from falling? You press a handle and presto—the onion is cut into even pieces—in a tightly covered jar. The gadget comes with a nut meat chopper and a flour sifter, too. Price is $5.50 for the set.

Practical, pretty and very new is this punch bowl caddy. Complete with eight large glasses set around a large bowl, the caddy would be a dream for serving at an informal party or around the television. A useful item for any household, it's selling at $10.

Modern day living calls for a hostess with the mostest time to spend with her guests—besides placing a handsome dish or two before them! It's not so hard to do so if she owns some insulated porcelain wear. In the selection, I've found a large eight-cup coffee carafe in

A quiet ceremony was solemnized in St. Andrew's Cathedral recently, when Donna Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cocoroch of Revelstoke, became the bride of Cpl. Douglas Nicolson of the Provost Corps, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Work Point Barracks, and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nicolson of Vancouver.

Father E. Paradis conducted the morning service. For her marriage, the bride chose a beige suit with white hat and accessories. Mrs. Maurice Rooker was her only attendant wearing a fringed, tan suit with brown accessories. Best man was M. Rooker.

A reception was held in the corporals' mess at Work Point Barracks following the wedding. Cpl. Gordon Mitchell, president of the mess, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple are now spending their honeymoon in Belclara Park, Vancouver. When they return, they will make their home at 636 Admirals Road.

DEAR ABBY...

Living on Memories

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently buried my husband after twenty-three years of a happy marriage. All of a sudden his ex-wife appears on the scene dressed like a widow in mourning. She screamed and carried on at the funeral like he was still her husband and I had to go some to keep everybody from thinking she was taking it harder than me. As far as I know he was good and finished with her years before I met him. I hear she goes out to his grave every day in her widow's outfit and cries and prays. Can I have her locked up?

REAL WIDOW. DEAR REAL: It must be obvious to everyone that this poor creature is sick. Let her live with her memories and pay no attention to her.

DEAR ABBY: We know a lady who is 79 years old and last week she went on a two-week vacation trip with her boy friend who is also 79. Now this lady goes to our church every Sunday, but do you think it is all right for her to take off on a trip with a man and then brag to everybody about it. Her own daughter can't tell her anything. This lady is the first one to point out somebody else's flaws. What do you think we should do?

HER FRIENDS. DEAR FRIENDS: This "lady" and her "boy friend" don't need their parents' consent to go on a trip together. Unconventional behaviour is "deductible" — from the reputation. There is nothing you can do.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEVER GET OVER IT": The Lord never gives us a bigger load than we can carry. If you have never prayed before, pray now.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Guardian Visits Local Bethel

Mrs. Sylvia Benedict, Supreme Guardian, International Order of Job's Daughters, recently made her official visit to Bethel No. 27, Victoria. Also on her official visit was the Grand Guardian of British Columbia, Mrs. Williamson of Trail, B.C., who was accompanied by Mr. Williamson, other members of the Grand Guardian Council and Mrs. R. McKenzie, past Grand Guardian of B.C. A dinner was held before the meeting in the Autumn Room on Fort Street, for visiting guests and members. Honored Queen, Miss Donna Campbell, presided at the meeting, using Mrs. Benedict's inscribed gavel.

Wedding Principals Motor To Okanagan and Cariboo

A motor trip to the Okanagan and the Cariboo followed the recent wedding of Ruth Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tyson, and Ian Ligertwood Riddell, son of Mrs. J. Riddell, all of Victoria.

Rev. C. Barner officiated at the candlelit service in Douglas Street Baptist Church, which was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums. Organist was G. Clarke.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin brocade fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a cascade of pink roses and heather. Her only jewelry was a necklace of pearls.

Attendants, Mrs. R. Allison, matron of honor, and Miss Joan Tyson, bridesmaid, were in similarly designed dresses of pink and blue nylon mesh, with headpieces to match. Both carried cascade bouquets of white daisies.

Bruce Davenport was best man and ushers were Ken Dunderdale and Don Tyson. Jack Greenwood proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Glenis Hotel, where a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table.

As the newlyweds left later on their honeymoon the bride wore a blue tweed suit with blue hat, navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and heather.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddell plan to make their home in Victoria at 1030 Terrace Avenue.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward of Madison, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. K. Mawle of Port Alberni, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Justice of New Westminster.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Can She Wear White? The man I'm engaged to has been previously married. Would it be proper for me to wear a white gown at my wedding? I have never been married.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS: Yes, if you wish, but I suggest something simple as you are probably planning a small and informal wedding.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Tables Have Turned—Men Now Look Older

In the past when a husband and wife were the same age, the wife often looked much older than the husband from middle-age on. However, today the tables are turned and the man in the family may look like her father or older brother.

This is due to many factors. In the first place, the economic struggle to provide adequately for a family is much greater today than it was in the past. Also, families seem to expect more. They take for granted an electric washing machine, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator, and at least one car.

Also, women always have been more health-conscious than men, or perhaps what I really mean is figure-conscious. It works out the same. Along with woman's interest in calorie-counting, she acquired a knowledge of good nutrition.

When things became harder for father, they became easier for mother. Modern woman now has so very many household appliances which give her much more leisure time. She also knows many more tricks about hair-styling, make-up, figure-molding and individuality in dress.

If the modern man does not want this little woman to look like his daughter, he should heed the handwriting on the wall.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Mr. and Mrs. Diet" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 44 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Bursary Winner Guest at Supper

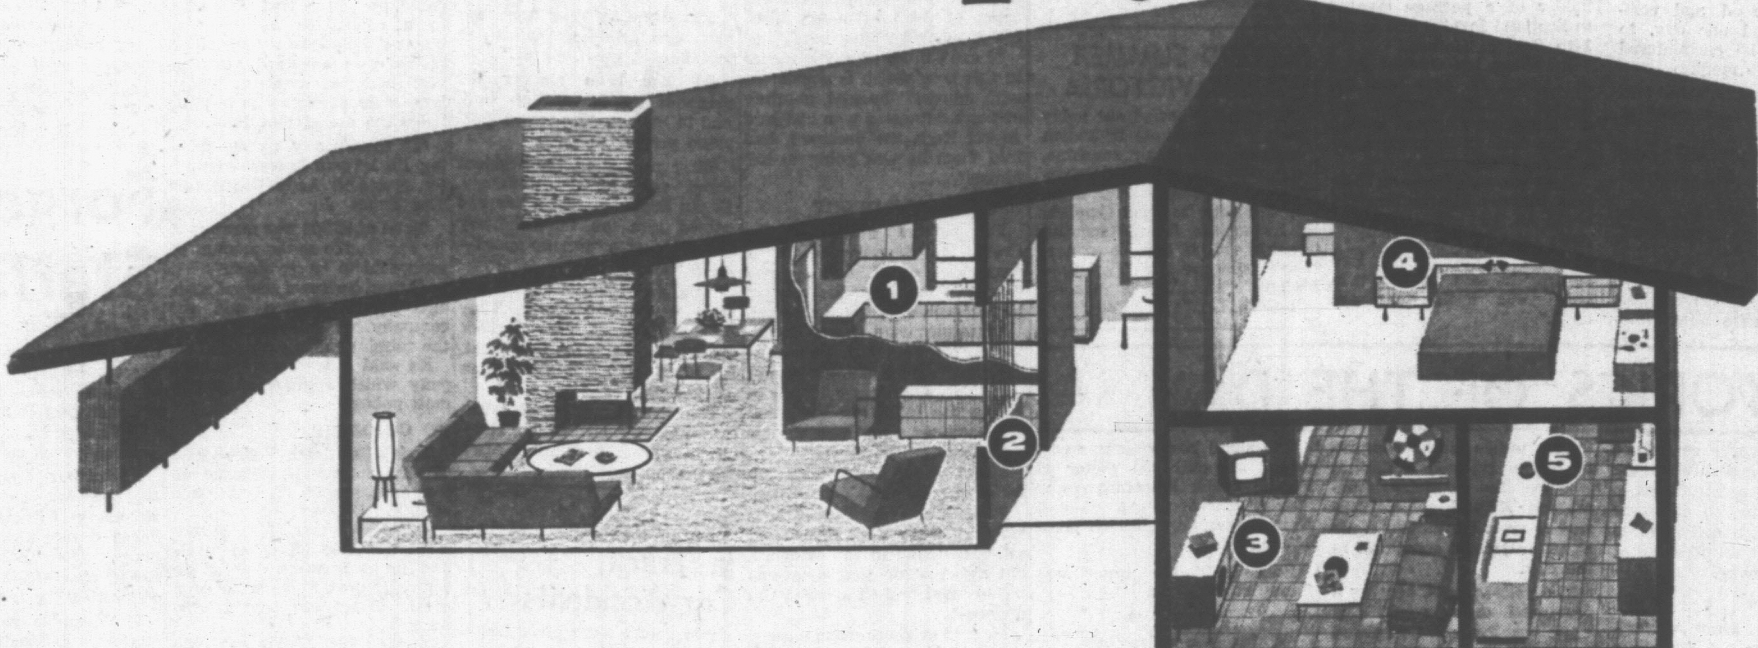

Winner of the Bay Wigley scholarship, Miss Margaret Salmond, and her mother, Mrs. J. Salmond, were honor guests at the recent supper meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, donors of the bursary.

Miss Lily Henderson presided and seated with her at the head table were Miss Mickie Bell, national editorial chairman from Penticton; Mrs. N. English, and Miss Eileen Gaunt of Duncan Club, and Mrs. P. Gravelle, executive director, Victoria YWCA.

Miss Ella Brett reported on social events in connection with the BPW national convention in Edmonton recently.

Later the group went on for a tour of the BCE building where a film on laying of a power cable from the mainland to Vancouver Island was shown. Committee in charge of presentation of the showing were Mrs. G. Rough, Miss Rose Gagliardi, Miss Dorothy Tupper, M. C. Collins and Austin Goward.

How a modern Telephone plan can help you

Today's pattern of family living calls for modern telephone planning. By that we mean careful selection of locations for your phones so that they provide the greatest possible convenience and efficiency. The points to consider are no different than in the location of other modern home equipment such as washer, dryer, TV set or lamps—you want to save time, save steps and increase comfort.

You can "telephone-plan" your home whether it is old, new or still on the drafting board; you can make your own plan, or call on us for advice.

HOW MUCH WILL A MODERN TELEPHONE PLAN COST?

Surprisingly little, for the amount of downright easy living you get! For example, you could have phones (on a 2-party line) in the kitchen, basement recreation room and master bedroom for only $6.70† per month. Whatever your plan calls for, you can work out the cost very quickly from the following table.

	PER MONTH
FIRST PHONE (2-party line)	$4.30†
FIRST PHONE (private line)	$5.50†
FIXED EXTENSION (each)	$1.20†

†Plus Tax

COLOR PHONES

Probably you'll want at least one phone in color—and there are ten colors to choose from: Turquoise; Sunlight Yellow; Sand Beige; Dawn Grey; Garnet Red; Classic Ivory; Jade Green; Camellia Pink; Gardenia White; Forget-Me-Not Blue*. If your telephone plan includes color, add a one-time charge of $12 for each color phone; all other rental and installation charges remain the same.

*Available Soon

YOUR HOME NEEDS ONE OR MORE EXTENSION PHONES IF:

- You have to run up or downstairs to answer the phone.
- You have to walk more than twenty feet to a phone from any room in the house where members of the family spend much of their work or leisure time.
- You receive many telephone calls at night.
- You entertain frequently.
- You receive a number of business calls at home.
- You have teen-agers in the family—or small children who must be kept in sight while you answer the phone.
- The man of the house is away for long periods, leaving the housewife alone at night.

BUILDING A NEW HOME OR RE-MODELLING?

Then by all means take advantage of the Telephone Company's free offer to pre-wire your home. All wiring is installed according to your telephone plan; concealed to avoid drilling holes in finished surfaces. There is no charge for this service—you pay only the regular charges when the instruments go into use.

1. KITCHEN PHONE:

The housewife spends 60% of her working day in the kitchen. Her kitchen phone saves hundreds of steps, cuts her working time by many minutes.

2. FRONT HALL PHONE:

Handy because of its central location. Easily accessible to the living room.

3. DEN, TV OR PLAYROOM PHONE:

Located right where the family spends the majority of its leisure time—and receives a large majority of its phone calls. Ends numerous trips up and down stairs.

4. MASTER BEDROOM PHONE:

So convenient when you're working in the bedroom area. Adds the security of being able to summon help in a night-time emergency.

5. BASEMENT PHONE:

Permits telephoning without leaving important family tasks, such as laundry and ironing. Also saves stair-climbing.

Douk Move Washout Looms As Paper Deadline Passes

A last-minute washout of plans for the mass exodus of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors from B.C. to Russia appeared possible today.

After a meeting with a Doukhobor committee, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he has now withdrawn his recommendation for extension of today's deadline for filing of migration forms by members of the sect — and few have responded.

Justice Minister David Fulton told a Sons of Freedom delegation in Ottawa today the federal government might grant a three-week extension — if Attorney-General Robert Bonner agreed.

The B.C. government had earlier recommended a 30-day extension for any person having a legitimate reason for delay. But Mr. Bonner indicated Monday a majority of Doukhobors are withholding their decision. His statement suggested the B.C. government is losing patience.

Mr. Moojelsky said there was not enough time to get all 3,000 members of the Sons of Freedom signed up.

He said the forms, which include agreement to renounce Canadian citizenship, are lengthy and each signing must be formally witnessed.

About 50 per cent of the Freedomsites had signed and another 30 days should be time enough for the rest.

However it was reported that

Immediate Start On Rebuilding

By MONTE ROBERTS

A roaring, $70,000 fire totally destroyed the Malahat chalet in just over an hour this morning.

The cedar building, one of the best-known Vancouver island landmarks, was burned to the ground, with only a stone chimney left standing.

Langford forest rangers and volunteer firemen, and Colwood RCMP arrived on the scene to find the building practically gone.

The chalet, which opened at 12 noon each day, was empty when the fire started.

Co-owners Marshall Smith and "Buzz" Burns were in the near-by Hitching Post coffee bar just before 10 a.m. when the waitress noticed smoke at the back of the chalet.

"At first we thought someone was burning rubbish," Mr. Smith said. "Then we realized the smoke was coming out of the back of the building itself."

PHONE OUT
Another witness said the telephone was out of order. A passing motorist was sent on to Langford to notify the fire department.

Meanwhile, the Langford forest rangers saw the smoke and sent a new, 2,000-gallon tank truck to the scene.

Said Mr. Smith: "It arrived between 10.30 and 11. By that time, there was nothing left of the inside of the buildings. The walls collapsed shortly after."

At 11.30 a.m., only a few smouldering floor beams remained to show where the chalet stood.

The famed totem poles outside the chalet did not burn. But the wooden statue of Chief Malahat which guarded the doorway was totally destroyed.

The well-known stone wishing well also remains.

Mr. Smith placed the value of the building at $40,000, covered by insurance. Not covered were $15,000 worth of stock, mainly Continued on Page 2

Bennett Threatens To Sue Paper

(Times Staff Reporter)

NORTH VANCOUVER — Threat of a $1,000,000 law suit against the Vancouver Province was issued this morning by Premier Bennett over a story on government debt manipulation.

The premier was white with anger over the story which appeared early today.

The premier told reporters "I have demanded a full apology from Mr. A. W. Moscarella (Province Publisher). I have never seen anything so completely false. Unless there is a complete retraction, withdrawal and denial, I shall sue for $1,000,000."

(Main point of the story was that in his direct debt "wipe out" plan, Mr. Bennett proposed to transfer from direct debt to contingent liabilities an amount of $20,000,000 which the Hart government originally borrowed to start the B.C. Power Commission back in 1946. The province called this a "sleight of hand" move.)

Vancouver Stocks

Ike, Dulles Open Door On Formosa

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held the door open today for a peaceful settlement of the Formosa crisis that might include withdrawal of large Nationalist Chinese forces from the offshore islands.

Both ruled out "appeasement" and any retreat under fire. But they emphasized a willingness to consider any suggestions for easing tensions in the powderkeg area.

Eisenhower made it clear in accepting the credentials of Chinese Nationalist ambassador George Y-h that the United States was not going to take a hard-headed attitude which would exclude a peaceful settlement with Red China.

He also called on Nationalist China to help avert war by considering suggestions for a peaceful settlement.

WITHDRAWAL POSSIBLE
Meanwhile, Dulles indicated that the U.S. would urge the withdrawal of large-Nationalist forces from Quemoy and Matsu if a dependable cease-fire arrangement could be worked out with the Communists.

Dulles told a news conference in reply to a question that there might be an important change in U.S. policy if the Communists were willing to "give" on some of the issues.

He said U.S. policy was "flexible and adaptable" to the situation the nation was required to meet.

POLICY CRITICIZED

Dulles said the U.S. did not feel that it was sound policy in the first place for Chiang Kai-Shek to make a major commitment of forces to the off-shore island. However, he said, the Nationalists had strong views on the subject and the U.S. acquiesced. Chiang is reported to have 100,000 men on the off-shore islands, of which 85,000 are said to be on Quemoy.

Dulles also said he would be willing to "meet" with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai if there were reason to think it would help settle the Formosa crisis. But he doubted the wisdom of such a meeting at this time.
